MEMORIAL DAY.

The weather Memorial was all that could be desired, clear and comfortably warm. The mills of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co. were closed all day, and most of the business places were closed in the afternoon and evening. Quite a number of the stores and other buildings were decorated with flags and bunting, and the town presented quite a holiday appearance. In the morning the graves of veterans in the old and Calvary cemeteries were decorated by a detail from the Sons of Veterans.

At about 2 o'clock a procession was formed and marched to Chapman's wharf, where services were held for the Newmarket naval heroes who went down to watery graves. This service was in charge of the Woman's Relief Corps, and consisted of music by the band, prayer by Rev. J. C. Prince, singing by the school children, and the strewing of flowers on the water, with the usual service of the W. R. C. on such occasions. The procession then reformed on Main street and marched to Riverside cemetery, where the services at the urn of the unknown dead were performed by the Relief Corps, with prayer by Rev. W. L. Phillips, after which a memorial service was held at the grave of John J. Hanson by the Sons of Veterans, whose camp is named for Mr. Hanson. These services consisted of prayer by Rev. J. C. Prince, address by Harry H. Briggs, taps by camp musician George F. Doe. This was followed by the regular decoration services of the G. A. R. The procession then returned to G. A. R. hall, where a collation was served to all participating in the parade by the ladies of the W. R. C.

The evening programme consisted of an open-air concert by the Newmarket Cornet Band in front of the town hall, followed by the following programme:

Music by Band.
Singing by the school children, under the direction of Miss Martha Walker.
Prayer, Rev. J. C. Prince.
Reading of Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, Walter Hersom.
Singing, Federated churches choir.
Oration by Col. W. W. Scott of Dover.
Singing, America.

CLEAN WATER FRONTS

Their Value to Towns and How to Secure Them.

NOTED EXAMPLE IN WISCONSIN

Move Begun by Women to Beautify Waterways in Milwaukee—Women's Congress to Co-operate in Plan to Adorn Rivers and Harbors.

Clean, tidy water fronts along the rivers and lakes or seashore add greatly to the appearance of towns situated by them. The same kind of work that has been done in a Wisconsin city can be tried in any town, according to local circumstances, as the following article shows:

Many prominent clubwomen having a keen interest in public affairs, as shown by their activity in the women's national rivers and harbors congress
for the promotion of improved waterways, have been enlisted recently in the movement for the beautification of American waterways.

In response to an invitation to cooperate with the American Civic association with a view to beautifying the waterways the women's national rivers and harbors congress enlisted with enthusiasm in the work. This organization has a representative executive board, its members being drawn from many states, and it promises to be one of the most important factors in the plan to have American waterways
adorned in a way pleasing to the eye
as well as effective in a utilitarian sense.

Mrs. Hoyle Tomkies of Shreveport, La., is president of the congress, and in a recent letter to J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic association, Mrs. Tomkies wrote that particular attention would be given by the congress to the aesthetic phases of waterway projects. In connection with the utilitarian feature of the rivers and harbors improvement the women, who include prominent members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, have been a great factor.

A notable example of the application of the beautiful to a commercial waterway was afforded by the city of Milwaukee during the year 1908. That city has three navigable rivers, and because of their depth it is one of the principal ports of the great lakes.
The Milwaukee river passes through an important jobbing district, and over one of its bridges connecting opposite sides of its principal retail streets pass thousands of persons each day. During the summer months many excursion steamers go up and down the Mil-

CIRCUS DAY.

waukee river, and it had been a subject of common talk that the water front as revealed to the passerby, both on land and water, was anything but pleasing—in fact, was a discredit to a city so beautiful as Milwaukee.

At the suggestion of the Women's Outdoor Art association a movement was begun to rehabilitate the water front along the Milwaukee river. The co-operation of one of the leading business organizations of the city was obtained and a landscape artist invited to visit Milwaukee to make a tour of investigation of the river, the report of which he presented at a mass meeting, when he offered suggestions for immediate work. The first great thing to do was to remove from the dock line great accumulations of ashes, debris, broken boxes and disabled sign-boards, and in that undertaking the mayor of the city gave promise of his active and immediate co-operation.

A general committee was formed,
composed of representatives of various business associations. A canvass of the property owners along the streets fronting the river was made for moral and financial support. A committee was appointed to take charge of the special work of replacing the bare spots, cleared of their debris, with green grass, shrubs and flowering plants. Window boxes were placed in some of the buildings, and railings were newly painted. A few, too few,
offensive billboards were taken down,
and a general atmosphere of cleanliness and beauty pervaded the entire territory, which before that had been one of carelessness and positive ugliness.

That work, so well inaugurated last year, is to be continued this year. The commercial activities of the business men along the river were in no way interfered with, the attractiveness of the city through one of its entrances was heightened, and the spread of civic pride was alone well worth the effort and expense connected with it.
What Milwaukee did with its river fronts can be accomplished by scores of other cities and towns in all parts of the United States.

Coquelin's Memory.

"How many parts do you know well enough to play tonight if need be?"
somebody once asked Coquelin. He took a sheet of paper and wrote down
the names of fifty-three plays of his repertoire. His friends laughed.

"You are boasting surely, mon ami?"
said the Viscomte de Lovenjoul.

"You have every one of these plays
in your library," said Coquelin quietly.
"Get them all out and put them on the table." The viscomte did so.
"Now," said Coquelin, "let anybody select a cue from any one of these plays
at haphazard and give it me."

They tried him with sixteen plays out of the fifty-three, and he never missed a single cue or made one mistake.—Fortnightly Review.

First comes kite time, then marbles; then stunts; then baseball and then Al. F. Wheeler's New Model Shows. What a thrill these simple words send through the heart of the man, who is still a boy. Beneath the shell that his battles with the world has given him what visions of paradise on earth, of joy supreme, of a day that stands high above all other days for months to come! Do you remember how you watched the men
putting up the posters—those fascinating heralds of the joy to come?
Do you recollect how you fell over their paste buckets in your desire to be first to see what the daring acrobats on the next sheet were going to do? No fairy story ever appealed to you as did these brilliant pictures on the bill board, fence or barn. Doubtless when the big show comes to town
you are going, "not that I care for such," you may say to your neighbors, "but the children want to, and you know they must be amused." That sounds well, but suppose, just for once, you be strictly honest with yourself, and if you do you will say,
"I am going because I want to go.
I am going to try to bring back a little of the joy that was mine when I was a boy."

Among the many exclusive features with the Al. F. Wheeler Shows may be mentioned Wheeler's Dancing
Horses, Belmont's Trained Bears,
Spitfire, the Untamable Lion, Irmo,
the talking horse, Duke and Bess, the giant Siberian Camels, the largest specimens ever placed on exhibition,
and the only baby camel of this species ever born in captivity.

Will exhibit at Newmarket, Saturday, June 12, afternoon and evening. Admission, 25 cents.

Do this with your children.

School children should be fed plenti-

age size at 25c; the family package with a piece of china 30c.

Breakfast on Quaker Oats every day.

Beautify!

The town beautiful movement should appeal to every householder in each community. A little work and very little expense on the part of each citizen would work wonders in the improvement of a town, and everybody
would share in the benefits.

FIVE DROWNED

Garcelon and Kenney Fall Overboard—Boy Saved—First Named Boston Man and Son of a Main Governor—Two More Lose Lives in Providence River by Capsizing of Boat—Another Commits Suicide by Jumping Into Charles River.

Yarmouthport, Mass.—Edward L. Garcelon, a Boston business man, and William H. Kenney of South Yarmouth were drowned about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the millpond at Weir village about two miles from Yarmouthport Center. Edward O'Brien, a 9-year-old boy, was rescued by his father.

The men and the boy were fishing in the pond, their boat being anchored about 15 feet from shore. According to the boy, who was the only witness of the drowning, the accident was caused by Mr. Garcelon attempting to change his position in the boat. He fell into the water. Mr. Kenney, in endeavoring to save his companion, was pulled overboard by the drowning man. Neither of the men could swim.

The cries of the O'Brien boy attracted his father, George O'Brien, who lives near the pond. Mr. O'Brien swam to the boat, which was half filled with water, and brought the boy ashore. Edward O'Brien told his father how the two men had gone overboard, and with Charles Chase, who had also been attracted to the scene by the boy's cries, Mr. O'Brien went out in another boat to make a search for the bodies.

The body of Mr. Kenney was soon found very near where the boat from which he had fallen was anchored. It was in an unright position, the feet being securely held in the muddy bottom of the pond, and there was scarcely a foot of water over the head. It was brought ashore immediately, and efforts at resuscitation were made by men who had gathered on the shore.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Chase continued the search for the body of Mr. Garcelon, which they found on the bottom of the pond. More than two hours were spent in efforts to revive the men under direction of Dr. H. B. Hart of East Dennis, but without avail.

Edward L. Garcelon was 52 years old and lived at 72 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass. He was a son of the late ex-Governor Garcelon of Maine. Recently Mr. Garcelon had purchased a summer place in West Dennis. He came here last Saturday expecting to visit his sister here, but she was tak-

Splendid Gift To Fall River.

Fall River, Mass.—At the meeting of the school committee Tuesday night a communication was received from Mrs. Spencer Borden, wife of Col. Sencer Borden, in which the offer was made to furnish and equip kindergarten schools throughout this city.

The offer, or gift, is intended as a memorial to Brooks Borden, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Borden, who was one of the three victims of a terrible accident at the Brownell street crossing 15 years ago.

The committee voted to extend thanks to Mrs. Borden, to accept the communication and that the chairman appoint a committee of three to consider the gift. This is but a matter of form, as the only condition attached is that the city shall maintain the kindergartens as part of the public school system of the city.

Gets Its Silver Service.

Pascouga, Miss.—With the big battleship Mississippi riding at anchor 12 miles south of this port, several thousand citizens of the state gathered on the shore here Tuesday morning and presented to her officers and crew the silver service which the people of this commonwealth purchased through popular subscription.

Fearful of storms and other dangers that might arise, Capt. Fremont was unwilling to leave his ship, and the silver service was accepted by Lieut. Commander Benjamin J. McCormick in the name of Capt. Fremont, the officers and crew.

Gov. Noel introduced Mrs. Eunice Miller Lockwood of Crystal Springs, Mass., a daughter of Lieut. Miller, who commanded the confederate shore batteries that sank the old warship Mississippi at Port Hudson during the civil war.

Small Brother Sent Home.

Nashua, N. H.—Tuesday evening Deputy Chief George H. Campbell found a small boy who gave the name of Duncan, and 9 Porter street, Somerville, Mass., as his home, crying on High street. The boy stated that he had come to town with his brother, William Duncan, and that the latter was in a saloon drinking.

The little fellow was taken to the police station, and the brother was found and locked up. Early in the evening Chief Wheeler furnished the boy with his supper and placed him in charge of Patrolman Frank Fletcher with money enough to buy a ticket for his home. Later the brother was released and ordered out of the city.

WHOLE TOWN FIGHTS FLAMES.

About 500 Acres Are Swept Over at Falmouth, Mass.

Falmouth, Mass.—A big woodland fire, which broke out at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning across the road from the East End meeting house, was late Tuesday night believed to be under control after having devastated at least 500 acres that contained large quantities of marketable lumber.

The fight to extinguish the flames was a bitter one, for while practically the whole town, under the leadership of Dr. James M. Watson, fire warden, worked valiantly to save their homes, the citizens of Sandwich were waiting with every preparation for a spreading of the blaze to their town, as were also the Mashpee Indians in their village.

The fire started from some as yet unexplained cause, and driven by the high west wind swept wildly and in defiance of the sturdy band of firemen until it reached the village of Ashumet and the shoers of Fresh pond.

The hardest struggle the fire fighters had was to save the houses of Capt. William W. Eldridge, Emmanuel Sousa, Capt. Charles H. Turner and Freeman Hallett. None of the structures were damaged.

For fully 30 miles the fire could be seen and a great pall of smoke hung over Cape Cod and the waters of Nantucket shoals all day and Tuesday night. Word received from those who had left the scene when a fresh company of fire fighters took their places, gave the assurance that the blaze was under control.

It is estimated that the wood destroyed represented a large sum, as wood here sells now for $5 and $6 a cord. The loss to the owners of these valuable tracts will undoubtedly be a heavy one.

Falls to His Death.

Everett, Mass.—The third accident here within 27 hours, two of which resulted fatally, caused the death of Albert Marsh of 42 Spring avenue, shortly after noon Tuesday. Mr. Marsh was painting the building at 245 Springvale avenue, Woodlawn district, when the staging suddenly gave way precipitating him to the ground, three stories below. He fell on his head and his skull was fractured, resulting in death about 15 minutes later. Dr. W. S. Schley was called, but was unable to do anything for the man. Medical Examiner Amerville viewed the body. Marsh was 51 years old and resided in Natick. He had resided in Everett about 16 years. He had seven children, the ages ranging from five to 29.

FIGHTING THE BEEF TRUST

Campaign to Prevent It Establishing a Leather Monopoly.

Evidence That Chicago Packers Under Present Conditions Will Ultimately Control Shoe Business.

Washington, D. C.—The lobby and the lawyers in charge of the manifold interests of the Beef Trust are in high glee because of recent successes in steering their unpopular client past all legislative and legal obstacles without a single bump.

A complete score of the Trust's victories, blessings and mercies would be very long, but here are a few of them: The proposed new prosecution by the Government has been abandoned. Recent offerings of the bonds of the Trust have been eagerly accepted in Wall Street at high prices. Prices of meats have been advanced again and again and there is no serious complaint. William Lorimer, the heroic defender of the Trust in Congress, has been elected to the Senate of the United States by his fellow-citizens of Illinois, and last, but not least, the movement for free hides in Congress has been defeated.

That is, the Beef Trust thinks the question is settled, but a game and effective fight for free hides and leather is still being waged, and there are hopes that Congress may yet be influenced to take another point of view.

The most effective campaign is that conducted by ex-Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts, who is bombarding Congress with literature and arguments which are causing a great stir in the corporation camp.

The last brick he has thrown at the meat monopoly is sensational in the extreme. Copies of his statement have been sent to every United States Senator and every Representative in Congress and to all shoe manufacturers, wholesale jobbers, retail shoe dealers and leather users in the United States. Mr. Douglas declares that the shoe manufacturers of this country are facing a crisis even greater than many of them realize.

Under present conditions it does not take a prophet to foretell in a general way what will happen, Mr. Douglas says. The logic of events has already proceeded far enough to indicate clearly the goal toward which we are rapidly traveling. This is no less than a gigantic trust controlling the beef packing, leather tanning and shoe manufacturing industries of this country. This trust will, of course, be built around the present Beef Trust.

The advantage given to the Beef Trust, as the original owner of hides, is so great that competition with it will be hopeless, as soon as it can establish itself in the leather tanning and shoe manufacturing industries.

old. He leaves a wife and two children. He was born on Cape Cod and was well known and popular, his father being William F. Kenney, the oldest telegraph operator in this section.

Two Are Drowned.

Providence, R. I.—While rowing from this city to Crescent park William Carpenter and James Humphrey were drowned by the capsizing of their boat near Star Goat island just before midnight Tuesday. Carpenter and a third man, Thomas O'Neill, attempted to change seats and forced the gunwale under water.

O'Neill was saved by Charles Page and William Picke, who heard the cries of the men in the water and went out in a boat. The body of Carpenter was recovered. He was 45 years of age and married. Humphrey was 40 and also leaves a wife.

Fifty See Cannon Drown.

In the sight of 50 persons E. P. Cannon of 323 Prospect street, Cambridgeport, jumped into the Charles river at 8.10 Tuesday night near the esplanade and in front of the new shoe and leather building. His body was recovered an hour later and is now at the morgue of Horace D. Littlefield in Lafayette square, Cambridge.

The man walked along as if nothing was troubling him and on reaching a point on the seawall some distance away from anyone else he jumped into the water.

Women in the vicinity screamed as they saw him struggling in the water. A couple of power boats some distance away were attracted by the cries, but although they put at once for the spot Cannon had disappeared before they got there.

Cannon was about 40 years old and was known to his intimates as "Dinky" Cannon. He had been despondent for some time, it is said, having been out of work and unable to obtain any. He lived with his sisters.

Milton, Mass.—Fire was discovered about 9.15 Tuesday night in the three-story brick building at the corner of Blue Hill avenue and Blue Hill parkway, Milton. The building has only one regular occupant, the branch of the Milton public library, which is on the second floor, the first being an unoccupied store and the top floor, Olivet hall, is used for meetings by several organizations. The fire started in the hallway on the ground floor, probably in an electric light switch-box. The interior of the building was damaged to the extent of $2000.

Borduc Severely Hurt.

Portland, Me.—Matial Bolduc, a Boston bookbinder, fell through the planking of the discarded elevator wharf Tuesday and was rescued with great difficulty. He was unconscious and was taken to the Maine general hospital, where Tuesday he is reported to be doing well. It is not known how he came to go out on the old wharf and it is supposed that he was some time in the water clinging to the piling before he was heard by any one.

Hedge at Gardner Palace Afire.

Boston, Mass.—Shortly after 5 Tuesday evening firemen were called to subdue a fire in a hedge surrounding the palace of Mrs. John L. Gardner in the Back Bay fens. In Behalf of Manufacturers.

The threatened removal from the state of certain large industries on account of the Massachusetts system of taxation has been disclosed in letters received by the Merchants' association recently. The members of the taxation committee of the association declare that this is one of the chief arguments for the passage of the amendment to the constitution, now before the senate, giving the legislature power to classify property for purposes of taxation.

These shrdao eta s et as etain One of these letters, from a large company manufacturing steamfitting, says:

"We believe that the taxation of machinery and merchandise of manufacturers as conducted at the present time by the state of Massachusetts is detrimental to the best interests of the state, as the amount of taxes which manufacturing concerns are obliged to pay in this way increase the burden of expense and make it much harder to compete with manufacturers in other states and communities where taxes of this sort amount to practically nothing.

"In addition to this, we are obliged to pay more for our coal and other material, and it would seem advisable that something be done to remedy the existing laws so that manufacturers can be relieved of this burden to at least a reasonable extent.

"We believe that a change of this sort would be for the best interests of the state, as the object should be to keep concerns within the state rather than to oblige them to go to other sections, due to just such reasons as this.

"There is no better example of this than the great increase in the manufacturing industry in the cotton lines in the south. We believe taxes are less, they are nearer the source of supply, and we have no doubt but that power is considerably cheaper than it is here, and it seems to the writer that in cases of this sort something should be done to relieve industries of this kind of the tax burden, even though the cost of coal and other materials cannot be lessened."

Massachusetts manufacturers constantly receive circulars from the south and west, offering as inducements a low tax rate, a low valuation of real estate and virtual exemption of machinery and stock in trade.

of babies between June 1 and Nov. 1, nearly one-half were due to impure milk, justifies the organization of a movement to prevent such unnecessary mortality in future.

Walter E. Kruesi, for the committee, told of its plans and the methods by which it proposes to supply poor mothers with pure milk when necessary even at so small a cost as 2 cents a bottle, mothers having opportunity for free consultation at the committee's headquarters with a physician and with a trained nurse, who will also visit the homes in her district and supplement the pure milk with what is quite as necessary, advice as to the care of the infant in other ways, especially during the hot months.

Wilbur C. Phillips, secretary of the New York city milk committee, gave a pathetic recital of the suffering and death among babies in his city for want of pure milk, and the measures that are now being taken by his committee to supply it.

He said that the New York committee sells certified milk at cost, the stations for its sale being in care of a physician and a trained nurse, but no mother is allowed to get the milk until a physician has certified that she is unable to nurse her baby herself. He was glad to know that the Boston committee's plan is similar in that respect.

Mr. Phillips gave startling figures to show the great falling off in infantile mortality after the policy of supplying the poor with certified milk was adopted.

Boston's Large Pay Roll.

There were 12,645 persons employed by the city of Boston, April 30, 1909, and 577 by the county of Suffolk and paid by the city, according to the pay roll book just issued. This is 463 less than were employed a year ago, 529 less than two years ago, and 304 less than three years ago, the last two enumerations being under the Fitzgerald administration.

The school department leads all others in number, there being 3251 thus accredited, and street work engages 3011, including 74 on street laying-out, which is not officially included in the street pay roll. The police is only a fair third in this view with 1552, fire department fourth with 961. The art department is at the other end of the scale with one proud name on the pay roll.

BRISK REVIVAL IN ALL LINES OF TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Reports From Corporations Show the Turning Point Long Since Passed—Decided Increase Shown in Steel, Copper and Electric Supplies.

New York City.—In an article on the improved industrial situation the Wall Street Journal summarizes as follows:

"A representative of the Standard Oil Company says the business of the company is normal.

"A representative of the General Electric Company says the corporation since February has been receiving orders at the rate of between $51,000,000 and $53,000,000 a year and that orders in the current fiscal year are likely to reach $60,000,000, or equal to the boom year.

"John A. Topping, chairman of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, says all the blast furnace capacity of the corporation is operating and seventy-five per cent. of the finishing capacity.

"The equipment companies report an improvement in business, although orders are not coming in as rapidly as in the case of many other industries.

SOAP FOR REMOVING SPOTS.

Chip three-fourths of a bar of good laundry soap into one or two gallons of water; let stand overnight till dissolved. Then add three ounces of white sugar, two ounces of honey, and one and a half ounces of turpentine, and boil together till it drops off the end of a spoon. Remove from the fire and let it cool. Then cut into bars. This is an excellent soap for cleaning men's clothing and washing all woolen and cotton fabrics, as it restores the color.—New York World.

AN IMPROVED CABINET.

A young woman recently utilized a narrow space in her dining room, between a door and window, in a way that was both artistic and useful. She had a long strip of wood finished to match the wood work of the room nailed to the wall from the picture moulding to the floor.

The strip was about eighteen inches wide and occupied the middle of the wall space. On it were put at irregular intervals small brass hooks, such as are used in china closets. On these were hung pitchers of every description, the owner being a collector.—New York Press.

CLEANING MAHOGANY.

Housewives do not realize the value of soap and water on old mahogany. It cleans the wood as nothing else does. Take a bowl or a bucket of warm water, into which has been put a tablespoon or more of olive oil and a few shavings of castile soap. Use a soft sponge or a fresh piece of cheesecloth. Wring it out in the water, so that you will not injure the carpet or the floor. Go into all the crevices of the carvings with cheesecloth wrapped about a small pointed stick. Be sure that every piece of the wood is dried with fresh cheesecloth or a bit of soft flannel.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Pieces of toilet soap ought never to be thrown away, but should be melted into a pulp with boiling water. When this is of the consistency of soft soap it may be poured into teacups to vs. George H. Swasey et al., board of appeal from the building commissioner of the city of Boston, establishes the right of the state under its police power to enact a law limiting the height of buildings in an arbitrary determined section of a city without offering compensation to property owners, and more particularly supports the Boston building commissioner in refusing the application made by Welch to erect a building 124 feet 6 inches in height on the corner of Arlington and Marlboro streets.

An act of the Massachusetts legislature, passed in May, 1904, divided the city of Boston into two sections, business and residential, and limited the height of buildings in the former to 125 feet on which Mr. Welch petitioned to erect his building was in the residential section, and the application was accordingly refused by the building commissioner.

Appeal was then made from the commissioner to the board of appeal, on the ground that the acts of the former were unconstitutional. The board supporting the commissioner, the plaintiff brought a petition for a writ of mandamus to the Massachusetts supreme court, which petition was dismissed by the court Jan. 1, 1907. The case was then brought to the federal supreme court, whose decision yesterday supports that of all of the previous tribunals.

Before the supreme court the firm of Tyler & Young acted as counsel for the plaintiff in error, F. C. Welch, while corporation counsel Thomas M. Babson represented the city of Boston. The case was the first which has ever come before the federal supreme court on the question of building restriction, and its decision is of wide import.

The contention of the plaintiff was that the action of the building commissioner under the state law was unconstitutional, since the law was inelastic and hence unreasonable and not properly permissible under the state police power. The supreme court, however, upheld the decision of the state court that the law was reasonable and properly in the interest of the public health and safety.

To Protect Babies.

The most noteworthy thing in connection with the mass meeting in favor of pure milk for babies, last week in Faneuil hall, was a declaration by John Ritchie, Jr., a member of the board of health, that in future all milk retailed in Boston, in stores, must be retailed and sold in sealed bottles, of a pattern that has been approved by the board of health.

Several hundred people attended the meeting, which was under the auspices of the committee on "milk and baby hygiene," the subject discussed being mainly the effect of impure milk on the infantile death rate.

Dr. John W. Bartol, who presided, said that a fact shown by an investigation last year, that of 1350 deaths

The question of the right of the transit commissioners to build in the Common will be determined by the full bench of the supreme court. Meantime McGovern will stop work. The injunction was issued to protect the city against damages occasioned by delay in carrying out of the contract.

Notes.

"A Broken Idol," which has just terminated its long and successful engagement in B. C. Whitney's home of musical comedy in Chicago—the Whitney Opera House—opened its Boston engagement at the Tremont theatre with a special Decoration day matinee. "A Broken Idol" is the laughing song success by Hal Stephens, Williams and Van Allstyne. The company, headed by Otis Harlan, was brought here in its entirety.

Bert Leslie, who divided honors with Hattie Williams in "Fluffy Ruffles" last season, is the principal attraction at Keith's theatre this week. Another popular favorite is Stuart Barnes, the monologist. An acrobatic feature of great interest is that of the Willy Pantzer troupe, the midget acrobats, who do some astounding feats. Charles and Fanny Van, who proved great favorites last week, remain for another.

Billy Clifford fresh from his starring triumph in "The Girl at the Helm," comes to the Orpheum theatre this week bringing with him an entire new repertoire of songs and stories. The European sensation, Lind?, will be another pleasing number. Maude Lambert, known as the girl with the velvet voice, is one of the most delightful personages on the bill. Coates and Grundy's Watermelon trust called America's favorite colored act, are winning great applause. Lee Kohlmar is making his debut in vaudeville, presenting "A Lesson in German." Ed Latell, the unique comedian, the Kohler trio, operatic soloists and several other big acts make up the balance of the bill.

In addition to this, the winner also gets $500 in cash, while the second and third get $200 and $100, respectively. Workmen are already employed at the grounds and a large amount of money is to be expended in putting the track in shape.

hand, the manufacturers are not anxious to sign contracts a long way ahead. They are expecting a rise in prices and are unwilling to bind themselves down. Business is just waiting for buyers and sellers to get together, and when that has been accomplished prosperity will be back.

"It seems to me now," he said, "to depend on the harvest. If it is good, and at present there are no reasons why it should not be, I look for a very big year in 1910. But, however well the crops turn out, the farmers will not be getting their money till next spring, and so it is likely to be next year before there is a return to the conditions which prevailed in 1906 and 1907.

"At the present moment there is, however, one hopeful sign. Large buyers have arrived at the conclusion that prices have about reached bottom, and are looking around to place large orders. Thus I heard of the United States Government the other

THE DATE FOR FULL RECOVERY.

A Pittsburg Estimate on the Progress of Trade Revival.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Opinion differs as to when the country's business activity will be such as to pronounce it fully recovered from the after-panic reaction. Increased producing capacity, as compared with 1907, in the steel trade especially, naturally raises the level on which conditions must now be judged. A few weeks ago it was estimated that it will be the end of 1911 before full capacity would be engaged. Several things have since come in sight to affect the prediction. If good crops are harvested this year, trade authorities now predict that the first half of 1910 will see a remarkable expansion in demand for iron and steel, as compared with the present situation, and they believe sufficient business is at hand to keep eighty-five to ninety per cent.

GOVERNMENT DETECTS RETURN OF PROSPERITY

Immigrants Are Coming Back and Customs and Internal Revenue Increasing.

Washington, D. C.—While President Taft isn't bragging about it, two departments, Treasury and Commerce and Labor, are pointing with pride to signs of the return of prosperity. Commerce and Labor has charge of the immigration work, and it is stated there that the first tangible evidence of panic was the departure of foreigners with the money that they had earned in America. Now, the department announces, the immigrants are coming back. Washington has not yet the detailed figures from the Immigration Commissioner at New York, but it has the assurance that the tide has turned and Claims He Can Explode Magazines of Vessels 500 Miles Away.

New Orleans, La.—That a wireless operator in a station five hundred miles away may explode magazines in battleships of any navy with the aid of his invention, is the claim of H. A. Folk, who has taken up the matter with the United States Government.

Folk has been experimenting with wireless telegraphy since Marconi proved its successful utility. He refuses to divulge details until the Government acts on the proposition.

of the capacity of the country in operation. As compared with 1906 and 1907, this would be equivalent to about 100 per cent.

One thing that must be reckoned with next year, providing the tariff is not revised to the liking of the country, is the Congressional elections. The speeches made by Senators Cummings, Dolliver, Bristow and others have been overlooked as possible factors in the near future. A Democratic House of Representatives elected next year, and convening in December, 1911, might affect business conditions considerably. Far-sighted manufacturers desire that the question be settled definitely, even if they must give up a larger proportion of their protection than was anticipated.

that the immigrant station at Ellis Island again is the busy place that it always is in prosperous times.

At the Treasury Department the first indication that the American people were becoming hard up was in the falling off in internal revenue receipts and in receipts from the customs. These two failures in the great revenue raising means of the Government accounted for the tremendous deficiency that promises to confront Uncle Sam at the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

With increasing receipts and decreasing deficit the Treasury Department is optimistic.

Biggest Boom Ever Expected as Soon as Tariff Bill is Signed.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, of New York, said at a dinner given here to financiers from the East who have been inspecting the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, and the Commercial Club of this city, that this country was on the verge of the greatest industrial boom it has ever known.

He said that "this boom would start the minute that President Taft signed the new tariff schedule."

way of what would otherwise be wasted. These cakes can be utilized for washing laces or small dress accessories of lawn or muslin which are laundered at home. The cakes should be left until the soap is hard and thoroughly dry.—Woman's Life.

FRESHENING STRAW HATS.

Light straw hats, which are the worse for wear, yet which are not worth sending to a professional cleaner can be made to look nice and white by covering the straw with a thick paste of yellow cornmeal and gasoline mixed. Let the paste stay on over night or until it is dry and brush off with a clean, stiff whisk. If necessary, another coating of the cornmeal can be applied.

Chip, Panama and Leghorn hats can have soiled spots cleaned from them by rubbing the surface with crusts of bread. Use small pieces of the bread and discard as soon as soiled.

For dark colored or black straw hats the best freshener is a thorough brushing and a careful wiping with alcohol. This is a much better treatment for a black hat than attempting to give it new blackness by shoe polish.—New York Press.

ARBOR DAY EXERCISES

How Subordinate Granges May Observe the Occasion.

Planting is Not the Sole Mission of the Day; Other Things That Are Essential Are Pointed Out—A Fundamental That is Often Forgotten.

[Special Correspondence.]

The sentiment of Arbor day is a good one. Unfortunately the usual school exercises held at that time have not been of the most practical character—not always by any manner of means. Perhaps one out of each million of trees planted on school grounds has lived and spent years in prosperous growth. Often the big boys of the school have gone to the woods on the afternoon before the day and selected a tall, leggy tree, chopped away the roots until the tree could be pulled out of the soil and taken it to the school-house, to be next day stuck into the ground—certainly not planted. Incantations of songs and recitations followed, and Arbor day services were closed. For a time the tree lived the life of an orphan until it finally gave up the struggle and died. One fundamental thing that should be taught in both the grange and the schools is that in order that plants and trees may thrive they must have a friend. Their successful growth depends upon something more than a ceremony at the time of planting.

The state of New York claims a grange membership of 83,000. Is it safe to say that not more than eighty-three Patrons—one out of a thousand—will attend or show any interest in the Arbor day exercises in their local school?

Yes, I know the day comes at a busy time with farmers. It is at the seed-time of the year. With no sowing or planting there can be no harvest. No one knows this fact better than the writer. This applies to the men. But how about the women? Even with them there will be housecleaning and soapmaking. However, some one should be able to give two or three hours out of the year to help the children in a work as fundamental as Arbor day. A little recognition at that time on the part of Patrons would be a great encouragement to the children and teacher.

Rev. I. W. Williamson's Letter.
Rev. I. W. Williamson, Huntington, W. Va., writes: "This is to certify that I used Foley's Kidney Remedy for nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble and am free to say that it will do all that you claim for it." Foley's Kidney Remedy has restored health to thousands of weak people. Contains no harmful drugs and is pleasant to take. The A. H. Place Drug Co.

Banks of Newfoundland.

Newfoundland would be nothing without that great submarine plateau known as the "banks," on which all the fishing is done. At a small station within the edges of the great bank that the cod loves so well the sea is quite smooth. It is usual for vessels fishing on the bank to inquire from those that have arrived from the open sea as to what sort of weather it is "aboard."

We do not know of any other pill that is as good as DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little liver pills—small, gentle, pleasant and sure pills, with a reputation. Sold by The A. H. Place Drug Co.

Wide Awake grange, Ontario county, N. Y., has purchased Gibson hall in Phelps to convert into a grange hall. The price paid was $2,200.

Many weak, nervous women have been restored to health by Foley's Kidney Remedy, as it stimulates the kidneys so they will eliminate the waste matter from the blood. Impurities depress the nerves, causing nervous exhaustion and other ailments. Commence to-day and you will soon be well. Pleasant to take. The A. H. Place Drug Co.

Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at The A. H. Place Drug Company's.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Newmarket Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Newmarket people testify to permanent cures.

Frank Beauchesne, living at 13 High street, Newmarket, N. H., says: "For some time I had severe pains across my back and a constant, dull, nagging pain through my loins. I could not stoop or lift anything without suffering. A friend finally told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box from The A. H. Place Drug Co. They entirely banished the backaches and regulated the kidneys. I have not suffered from kidney trouble since and know Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me entirely. I am glad to endorse them to other sufferers."

Memorial Day dawned bright, cool and fresh; an ideal day for the old veterans to perform their labor of love; and as the graveyards are entered by the old soldiers with their halting steps to lay their flowers on the graves of their brothers, who have answered to the last roll-call, they become gardens. The war is behind them, like the sunset, and we must stand and see the glory from the hill. "The sun is down and all the west is paved with sullen fire." Year by year that "sullen fire" sinks lower, and wider and wider the gaps in the ranks show against the light. In a few more years the evening will have descended and the figures will prosperous growing trees, will be very unattractive if the stove wood lies scattered about the yard and pie crusts and waste paper litter up the grounds. The day can be commemorated by sowing grass seed quite as much as by planting shrubbery. The grounds may be divided into sections and sides chosen among the children in a contest to see which party does the most commendable work. Children will be delighted with that kind of contest. One planting may be done that is not usually mentioned in Arbor day exercises—that is a hitching post. The school commissioner will appreciate that, and if he does not thank the pupils for their enterprise he need never try to be elected to that office again. Often of a Friday afternoon some one may come to take the teacher home. It may be her father or mother or a sister or brother or perhaps—just possibly, you know—some other girl's brother. There is no doubt that the hitching post will be appreciated by somebody.

Would it be untactful for the lecturer at the time of the next grange meeting following Arbor day to canvass the question of how many Patrons showed any interest in the day or even knew what the teacher and children did? The result might surprise him.

New Hampshire Grange Fair.

The Union Grange Fair association, comprising seventeen subordinate granges in New Hampshire, has become incorporated and will hold its second annual fair Oct. 5, 6 and 7, 1909, at Plymouth, with the following board of officers in control: President, Orville P. Smith, Ashland; vice president, David A. Atwood, Bridgewater; secretary, Richard Pattee, Plymouth; treasurer, Willis F. Hardy, Ashland. This is businesslike grange enterprise.

In recognition of her attendance at every meeting of Campton (N. H.) grange during her three years' term as master Mrs. Anna Lougee has been presented with a solid gold past master's pin.

When Newfound Lake of Bristol N. H., decided to build a hall, Mrs. Jennie N. McMurphy assumed the obligation to secure a mile of pennies for the hall fund and in a year and a half has secured $130.

The Grange in Washington.

Washington state is fast coming to the front in grange membership. Last year they started with eighty-eight subordinate granges, seven Pomona granges and one juvenile grange, and they closed the year with 154 subordinate granges, ten Pomona and two juvenile granges. Their membership increased from 6,347 to 8,000. In grange fire insurance they carry $2,000,000 in risks. The use of denatured alcohol appeals to the members in Washington, and considerable is being done in co-operative trade.

Lincoln Phillips, pastor of the Free Baptist church, attended the New Durham Quarterly Meeting, which was held at East Rochester last week, as the corresponding messenger from the Rockingham Association. Thursday, May 27, he attended the Rockingham Sunday School Association, which held its thirty-fourth annual convention at the First Congregational church, Exeter.

At the last meeting of the School Board the following teachers were elected: A. B. Crawford, principal high school; Elsie P. Peabody and Blanche M. Rooney, assistants; Cora Aid to Civic Welfare.

A church organization of men that will take an interest in the civic welfare of Kansas City was formed at a dinner the other night at the Linwood Boulevard Christian church.

"This club will be a social organization with four other objects besides the civic one," said the Rev. Burris A. Jenkins, pastor of the church. "We desire to promote the social, missionary and Biblical welfare of the church and to increase the membership and attendance." As to civic affairs, we expect to take up matters that concern the public in Kansas City, especially where there is a right and a wrong. Public playgrounds and an undesirable liquor license, as examples, will receive our active support or opposition. Our physician members will interest the club in lectures on pure milk, tuberculosis and the public health generally."

Clean Up Now.

The soil at present is in prime condition for weed pulling, plowing and working over in general. Vacant lots now covered with last year's crop of dried weeds should be plowed and harrowed smooth and kept free from weeds until the seeds have all started, after which they will need no care until next year. Parkways should receive similar treatment with hand tools. Weeds in gutters and at street

DURHAM.

Adams Point is placarded, "Private Landing. No more free privileges allowed. No free picnics allowed," etc. Which means that the privileges accorded to many by the hospitable owner for so many years are becoming much abused by multitudes. Small parties who wish to picnic there for a small sum and larger parties for a corresponding sum, by asking previous permission, may do so. Otherwise they are free to find their pleasures elsewhere and thus rid the place of common intruders. This has become imperative, or this "Exquisite Point of Greenness," as it has been written about, will assume the beautiful aspect of a worn-out hen farm, aside from the exasperation of bothering with people who leave all their manners at home, as this is a busy world and "politeness is an air cushion; there is nothing in it, but it eases one's jolts amazingly as they pass along through the world," is a good old maxim (and might be learned by many who class themselves as educators in many ways) in these times, when it seems a crime to hold one's own.

The Five Kakkas.

A set of regulations, intended to distinguish the Sikhs irrevocably from those around them, was the rule of the Five Kakkas. Every Sikh must have with him five things beginning with the letter "k"—viz, kesa (long hair), kangha (a comb), karada (a knife), kirapana (a sword) and kacha (breeches reaching to the knee). The purpose of these rules was that every Sikh should avoid shaving, as do Mohammedans and Hindus, and should be constantly armed and free from the long garments that might impede him in a fight.

At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." MY PUNKIN PIETY.

Since I've grown old I oft sit down
And shed repentant tears
Because I was a dreadful kid
Back in my early years.

Dear mother trusted me so far,
But I was always near Where'er she put the cooky jar,
And, strange, they'd disappear.

The doughnuts, tarts and sugar cake,
Cake roosters, jumbles, snaps—
How quickly they would their leave take!

It was the rats—perhaps.

One day ma made a punkin pie—
A bully pie, oh, my!
I watched her mix the eggs and things
And winked the other eye.

I cannot lie. I stole that pie,
And, nudging Brother Jack,
I hustled for the kitchen door,
But mother called me back.

I had the pie shoved up my back.
It slipped down on my chair,
It was my luck, alack, alack,
To sit down on it square!

My mother laughed until she cried.
I cried until I laughed.
They called me "Punkins"—"Punkin-head."

Oh, my, how I was chaffed!

I'm called a pious saint today,
Of names I've a variety,
But mother oft recalls to me
My early punkin piety.

HOT WATER FARMING.

Arctic Circle Miner Who Made a Good Find.

"Of all farms in the world perhaps the most remarkable is in Alaska on a small branch of the Tanana river, only 126 miles south of the Arctic Circle," said T. R. Mitchell. "It is owned and operated by a man named Karshner.

A few years ago Karshner was engaged in hunting gold when he came across something which astonished him greatly. It was a little stream of hot water. He traced the stream to a spring, which was likewise hot, and presently it became obvious that a considerable area was underlaid by such springs. Promptly deciding that this was a discovery more valuable than a gold mine, Karshner gave up prospecting, obtained a quantity of vegetable seeds of various kinds and started in to raise garden truck.

"The temperature in that region sometimes falls to 56 degrees below zero, but a natural system of hot water heating, free of cost, was just the thing for truck gardening near the Arctic Circle, where potatoes have a market value of 25 cents and other vegetables bring prices in proportion.

"The Karshner farm occupies a flat area with a convenient slant toward the south. Hot water, oozing out of the ground, forms three small streams which empty into the nearby river. The warm spring extends over a distance of about a mile, and as the owner says, the heat must be felt to be believed. He goes on to say that the place has a climate of its own, for oftentimes there is no frost when it is freezing

MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Way out in the Sea of Vain Regret,
Lies the Island of Might Have Been.
It is walled about by the Cliffs of Remorse,
Which are lashed by the Waves of Sin.

We who live in this flowery world,
And have ever hope before,
Know not of those hearts in anguish wrung
Who dwell there evermore;

Each sad smile tells a woeful tale,
Of years that were spent in vain,
The empty search of the joys of life,
And woke from the dream in pain.

At a murmur tells of their poignant grief,
Only a weary smile;
But they long to flit on the Wings of Death
Away from the sunless isle.

Way out in the Sea of Vain Regret,
On the Island of Might Have Been,
That is walled about by the Cliffs of Remorse,
Which are lashed by the Waves of Sin.

A Mistaken Girl.

"There are so many ways for money to go, mother!" sighed Ethel, as she held out a note for Mrs. Bassett to read. "I try to be careful of my allowance, but so many unexpected things happen. Now here is an expense I didn't plan for."

Mrs. Massett read the note which Ethel handed her. It was signed "Mollie Carter," and said that the writer had just sent a cablegram of condolence to Ellen Mather, in London, on the death of her brother.

"I sent it in your name, dear Ethel, knowing how fond you are of Ellen, and fearing that you might be too busy at home to think of it," read Mrs. Bassett.

"Mollie is so thoughtful," said Ethel; but a little sigh followed the statement. "You see, mother, I shall have to pay for the cable as soon as I get back to school."

"Mollie Carter is the girl who sent you last vacation, isn't she?" asked Mrs. Bassett.

"Yes, I don't know as I should have thought of it myself," acknowledged Ethel. "I didn't even know that she had sent them until I got the florist's bill. You see, Mollie didn't know Constance well enough to send her flowers, but said that the moment she heard of her engagement she knew just how I would feel and she fairly flew into a florist's and picked out the very best violets he had, and sent them in my name. There are not many girls so thoughtful as Mollie."

"I should hope not," replied Mrs. Bassett. "The bill for those violets was $3; this cable will be as much more. Your entire allowance, Ethel, is being eaten up by Mollie Carter's thoughtfulness. I see mother and Mrs. Clay really plan it?" she exclaimed, delightfully. "Then it will be all right, and it is good of you, Mollie, to take so much trouble. I've often told mother how thoughtful you always are."

"I'm not going to share the credit for planning it with anyone," laughed Mollie. "It will be as much of a surprise to your mother as it is to you, but I'm sure she will be just as much pleased."

Ethel remembered her mother's comments upon Mollie's thoughtfulness, and her face clouded.

"Mollie," she exclaimed, reproachfully, "you ought never to have done such a thing! My mother won't like it at all. And I promised her not to spend any money foolishly. She will send the bills straight back to you, Mollie Carter. She won't pay them."

Before Mollie had time to rally from this unexpected ingratitude the door swung open and a tall, dark-eyed girl rushed into the room.

"Girls!" she exclaimed, "come and see my room this minute! My mother has had it all done over for me—new paper, curtains, and a mahogany desk, too. Think of that!"

But Ethel did not move. She nodded her head toward Mollie and said slowly, "She did it, Maud, your mother doesn't know a thing about it."

"Don't thank me, girls!" exclaimed Mollie. "I wrote your mothers not to think that it had been any trouble to me. Ethel has"—But Maud waited no longer.

"Mollie Carter!" she exclaimed, "how dare you do such a thing! After that rug, too! My father won't pay a cent. These things will have to go straight back."

"And mine will, too," joined in Ethel. "My mother didn't like it about the flowers and the cablegram. She won't pay for these things."

"I'm going to tell Miss Mason this minute!" declared Maud. "I do believe you are crazy, Mollie Carter! Don't you suppose people know what they want to do without your interfering? Come on, Ethel," and the two girls hurried out of the room, leaving Mollie speechless with indignation.

If Maud expressed her own views clearly, Mr. Clay may be said to have done so emphatically in his letter to Miss Mason, inclosing Mollie Carter's letter and the bills for his daughter's room. Mrs. Bassett's communication was no less plain, and after a tearful session in Miss Mason's room, Mollie Carter finally realized that the qualities on which she had most prided herself, thoughtfulness for others and an "infinite capacity for taking pains" in behalf of her friends, were in reality a gift for meddling with other people's affairs. Her uncle impressed this fact upon her when he paid the bill for papering two rooms at Miss

THE QUAINTEST HOUSE IN ENGLAND

By Howard B. Newman

While cycling recently in England, through what is called the "Black Country," near Dudley, a turn in the road brought me suddenly before one of the strangest specimens of architecture in the world, rivaled only by the famous tower of Pisa, Italy.

It was the Glynne Arms, a roadside public house in the quaint little town of Himley. Locally it is known as the Siden House—"Siden" is a corruption of "all aside"—from the fact that it leans as far out of the perpendicular as is possible for a house to lean without tumbling over altogether.

It has rejoiced in its peculiar angle for many years, but it is only quite recently that the public curiosity has been aroused in it. Now it is the centre of attraction for miles around, and a favorite place for a drive on holidays. It is about three miles from Dudley and about the same distance from Wolverhampton, and is near Himley Hall, the Staffordshire seat of the Earl of Dudley.

The working of the Himley collieries is responsible for the extraordinary attitude of the Glynne Arms. In fact, the mining subsidences have played strange tricks with house property in the Black Country.

It is said the house owes its name to the late Mr. Gladstone and his brother-in-law, Mr. Stephen Glynne, who jointly carried on in years gone by an important ironworks in the neighborhood.

The house itself is of a very unpretentious character, and is built of red brick. One end is supported by large stone buttresses. Entering at the front door, the visitor ascends a pair of stone steps into a somewhat wide passage, where the fun begins; for this passage has been rendered so uneven that he who traverses it lurches about from side to side like a landsman on board ship in a storm.

After a struggle the coffee-room

pair of crutches uttered a loud and dismal shriek upon coming in sight of the house and, throwing away his crutches, stamped across the Black Country as fast as his good sound legs could carry him. Whether the sight of the exceeding crookedness of the inn had effected a miraculous cure, or whether the cure was due to a guilty conscience, remains an open question.

Made a Mistake.

The tube car gave a lurch. The young man who had just risen from his seat lost his balance. The tube car stopped with a jerk. The young man sat down automatically in the fashionable lady's lap. She began to shriek in this wise:

"You contemptible pup! I wish you to understand that I am not a lamppost or a piece of furniture to be clung to for support! You have no right to crowd in and tear other people to pieces with your big, clumsy hands! You pitiful clown, you!

You aren't fit to be allowed among nice, quiet, well dressed people! You unmannerly bumpkin, you deserve to be"—

"Excuse me, madam," broke in the young man, "you have made a mistake."

"A mistake?" demanded the lady, her eyes flashing with anger. "What do you mean?"

"This ma'am," replied the young man. "I am not your husband!"—Tit-Bits.

GERONIMO.

"MEMOIRS OF DAN RICE," THE CLOWN OF OUR DADDIES.

At Last, There is on Sale a Book Brimful of American Humor.

Any bookseller will tell you that the constant quest of his customers is for "a book which will make me laugh." The bookman is compelled to reply that the race of American humorists has run out and comic literature is scarcer than funny plays. A wide sale is therefore predicted for the "Memoirs of Dan Rice," the Clown of Our Daddies, written by Maria Ward Brown, a book guaranteed to make you roar with laughter. The author presents to the public a volume of the great jester's most pungent jokes, comic harangues, caustic hits upon men and manners, lectures, anecdotes, sketches of adventure, original songs and poetical effusions; wise and witty, serious, satirical, and sentimental sayings of the sawdust arena of other days. These "Memoirs" also contain a series of adventures and incidents alternating from grave to gay; descriptive scenes and thrilling events; the record of half a century of a remarkable life, in the course of which the subject was brought into contact with most of the national celebrities of the day. The book abounds in anecdotes, humorous and otherwise; and it affords a clearer view of the inside mysteries of show life than any account heretofore published. Old Dan Rice, as the proprietor of the famous "One Horse Show," was more of a national character than Artemus Ward, and this volume contains the humor which made the nation laugh even while the great Civil War raged. This fascinating book of 500 pages, beautifully illustrated, will be sent postpaid to you for $1.50. Address Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard street, New York City.

OVER THE FENCE Neighbor Says Something.

The front yard fence is a famous council place on pleasant days. Maybe to chat with some one along the street, or for friendly gossip with next door neighbor. Sometimes it is only small talk, but other times neighbor has something really good to offer.

An old resident of Baird, Texas,
 got some mighty good advice this way once.

He says:

"Drinking coffee left me nearly dead with dyspepsia, kidney disease
 and bowel trouble, with constant pains in my stomach, back and side,
 and so weak I could scarcely walk.

"One day I was chatting with one of my neighbors about my trouble
 and told her I believed coffee hurt me. Neighbor said she knew lots of people to whom coffee was poison
 and she pleaded with me to quit it and give Postum a trial. I did not take her advice right away, but tried a change of climate, which did not do me any good. Then I dropped coffee and took up Postum.

"My improvement began immediately and I got better every day I used Postum.

"My bowels became regular and in two weeks all my pains were gone.
 Now I am well and strong and can eat anything I want to without distress. All of this is due to my having quit coffee, and to the use of Postum regularly.

"My son, who was troubled with indigestion, thought that if Postum helped me so, it might help him. It did, too, and he is now well and strong again.

"We like Postum as well as we ever liked the coffee and use it altogether in my family in place of coffee and all keep well." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

thought. The articles of furniture were returned, and Ethel and Maud agreed that it would be kinder not to mention the affair to the other girls, all of whom cherished a belief in Mollie Carter's thoughtfulness.

"You have managed very well this winter, my dear," said Mrs. Bassett.
 when Ethel came home for the Easter vacation. "I really feel quite proud of your economy."

"You ought to thank Mollie Carter," laughed Ethel. "It really is funny to see how she puts a stop to everything that sounds like expense.

She's just as popular as ever, but some of the girls think that she doesn't take quite enough interest in things. They say that Mollie isn't so thoughtful for others as she used to be."—Alice Turner Curtis, in Youth's Companion.

"Very well, then, let her pay for what she orders."

"But, mother, how could she? She hasn't a penny of her own. Her uncle pays her expenses at school and all her bills, but she hardly ever has any money. That's one reason we girls all think her so wonderful—she never seems to give money a thought. Last term she picked out a lovely rug for Maud Clay's room and had it sent up in her father's name. Then she sent Mr. Clay a note; and mother, we all felt so dreadfully for Maud. Her father wouldn't pay for the rug and it had to be sent back."

"Mr. Clay did exactly right," declared Mrs. Bassett. "Mollie Carter ought to know better than to do such a thing. If I were you, Ethel, I would not pay for that cable."

"O mother, why, that would be as bad as Mr. Clay! I couldn't do that!"
 replied Ethel.

"Do as you think right about it,
 my dear, but I'm afraid that Mollie Carter will find herself in some unpleasant position on account of her thoughtfulness, as she calls it."

When Ethel returned to school that fall she found, to her utmost surprise, that her room had been entirely repapered in a most delicate and tasteful way. All her things had been put in their proper place, and very snug and sweet the little combination study and bedroom looked. Mollie Carter was on hand, with all the pretty tea things spread out, and she chattered about arranging the tea
 table and evidently enjoying her friend's surprise.

"And you should see Maud Clay's room!" she exclaimed. "O Ethel, it is just what Maud has been wanting —paper with tiny pink rosebuds and curtains to match! I had to keep right after the paperhanger to get the rooms finished in time. I wrote her mother about it to-day."

"Miss Mason?" gasped Ethel, wondering at the principal's agreement to such changes.

Mollie laughed a little. "Well, Ethel, it was funny enough. I had to talk and talk to Miss Mason to convince her that it really was just what your mother and Mrs. Clay would wish. But as soon as she realized that I really was acting for them, doing what they wished, then she gave right in and helped all she could."

Ethel's face brightened. "Did

Count Zeppelin tells an ama-story of the ease with which the German emperor is in the habit of breaking records. On one occasion he was out shooting with the kaiser. At the end of the day it was announced that the kaiser had broken all records.
 His deer were laid before him in a long line. The photographers began to get their cameras ready. His majesty had shot, the head keeper said, sixty-four deer. The kaiser made no public contradiction, but, as he took up his position behind the deer for the photographs, Count Zeppelin heard him murmur to the head keeper
 with a smile: "Sixty-four deer, eh?
 That's very odd. Indeed, it is almost inexplicable. I only fired, you know, thirty cartridges."—Tit-Bits.

Salvation Free.

 had decided to leave an unremunera-tive charge, finding it impossible to collect his salary, said in his farewell sermon: "I have little more to more bewildered. The laws of gravitation seems to be an unknown quantity. A table stands by the window, apparently at a great slant, yet a marble placed upon it at the lower end runs rapidly up the table and falls over the higher side. A clock upon the table stands at an angle to its support, but it ticks comfortably,

 the pendulum swings regularly, and
 the hands show the correct time.

A shelf in the taproom seems to lean at an angle of many degrees toward the kitchen door; but place
 a marble upon the centre of it, and it stands there quite stationary.

Landing a camel at Berbera for the operations against the Somali Mullah. After lying dormant for five years the Somali Mullah—who, after the severe lesson we taught him in 1903, had agreed to keep the peace—has broken out again and has been raiding tribes who are under our protection. He is said to have 70,000 men under him, and against this force we have in the country some 4600 men, including the Sixth Bat-

alion of the King's African Rifles and an Indian contingent, who are garrisoning the British posts,—one of which, Burao, is eighty miles inland.
 Other troops are being rapidly hurried to the spot, and in the meantime the British cruiser Philomel has shelled some of the Mullah's followers who have been harassing friendly tribes. Our photograph shows a Good Humored Servians.

Servians in their good nature and love of humor are said to remind travelers of the Irish peasantry. They are hospitable to strangers; their patriotism is vehement, almost quixotic,
 and they take great interest in poli-

 towns and cities come from abroad as

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pink- ham's Vegetable Compound

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from a female weakness and disease, and I could not stand more than a minute at a time. My doctor
 said an operation
 was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost
 as much as death.
 One day I was reading how other women had been cured by Lydia E.
 Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,
 and decided to try
 it. Before I had taken one bottle I was better, and now I am completely cured."—LENA V. HENRY, Route No.
 3, Adrian, Ga.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly,
 half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation,
 ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Surely such valuable testimony, therefore, should create confidence in the minds of suffering women.

Satisfactory

For real, solid satisfaction, you should always use "White House" Coffee on your table. Thousands of people drink it every day in the year and will use no other brand, simply and solely because IT is satisfactory.

Yes indeed

It suits when other coffees disappoint. It has been compared again and again—always to ITS everlasting credit; always chosen in preference. It's just THE coffee to suit YOU. Why not try it and see?

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR A CAN OF "WHITE HOUSE" COFFEE (by name)—THEN IT SHOULD BE FORTHCOMING, AS OBLIGING DEALERS REGARD THE WISHES OF THEIR CUSTOMERS, AND DO NOT "SUBSTITUTE."

Manitoba's Progress.

Manitoba became a province in 1870. Its population was 62,260 in 1881, 152,506 in 1891, and 255,211 in 1901. The value of Manitoba's harvest in 1908 was a little short of $70,000,000. The census of 1906 gave Winnipeg, its capital city, a population of 90,000. There is nothing wild in a guess that its present population is not far from 120,000.

Church Treasurers in the Kremlin.

The ikons in the Cathedral of the Assumption in the Kremlin at Moscow are immensely valuable. They yielded about five tons of silver and five hundredweight of gold to the French soldiery in 1812, but this treasure was recovered by the Cossacks, who in their gratitude presented to the cathedral a silver chandelier weighing 900 pounds. The jewels with which the ikonostas is adorned are valued at £25,000, a single emerald being worth £10,000.

There is a Bible so large that two men are needed to lift it, and it is studded with gold and emeralds and other stones. A sober estimate of the weight of gold used in the ikonostas and vessels of this famous church alone places it at 106 hundredweight.—London Globe.

Gravel and Kidney Trouble of Years Standing Cured.

Theodore Ott, R. F. D., No. 2, Elkton, Md., a large property owner, says: "Six years ago a pain in the back almost toppled me over. My back got weak and ached most of the time. Sediment in the urine changed to small grains and then gravel began to cause terrible painful attacks. I lost 29 pounds, and as specialists did not

THE SMALL CHICKS.

To Raise a Profitable Percentage Requires Faithful Care.

The poultry man must bear in mind that small chicks have many enemies, and to raise a large percentage of those that hatch requires the most faithful care. For the first two weeks I have a supply of mixed chick food and fresh clean water constantly before them and cover the floor of the coop with dry hay chaff with a supply of sharp clean sand for grit. When the chicks are two weeks old they may have a feed of cracked corn and wheat at night and the chick feed gradually reduced until the chicks are a month old when they will not need it.

At this time give them a mash for their first morning feed consisting of one-half corn meal, one-quarter wheat middlings and one-quarter ground oats mixed with skimmed milk. After the chicks are a month old they may have a hopper filled with cracked corn and wheat always before them, with which the morning mash will bring them to maturity in good time.

When not needed for breeding purposes the cockerels from the first hatch are ready for broilers by June 10, when they will dress five pounds to the pair. The cost of feeding them to this age has not exceeded fifty cents each.

The April pullets will commence laying by October, and should be removed to the warmer quarters before the cold nights of November, as they will lay earlier and better for it. The old hens should have been killed off in August, when they are in good demand at the summer hotels, to be served up as spring chicken.—A. C. Hawkins, Worcester County, Mass., in American Cultivator.

Many are the ways published to make trap nests. All are after simplicity, so I give you mine, and as I have tested it thoroughly and have two in constant use, I know it is O. K.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY ADAM MACDONALD REOCH.

Theme: What is Your Life?

Text: For what is your life? It is even a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.—James 4:14.

This is an apt metaphor with which to represent the brevity and evanescence of life, but it does not tell the whole story.

The cloud which the text speaks of as floating idly in the sky we have imprisoned in our machinery and compelled to do mighty things. This capacity of fleeting vapor for energy and work well represents the capacity of the human spirit for inspiration and service. This constitutes man's greatest endowment and is the life of every faculty and attainment.

Scripture continually speaks of man as a "vessel" or utensil which depends for its usefulness and worth upon the value of its contents. When noble ideals perish our life descends toward the level of the brute, just as vapor, bereft of its heat, turns again to its original liquid form, comparatively without value.

Life and action carried on in accordance with true ideals will result unflinchingly in progress. Too often the monotony of life consumes the energy which should go toward the realization of our ideals, and when we stand before the doors of large opportunities we are overcome with fear and hesitation.

Man, like the vapor, will never do his best work except under pressure. A brook will babble until it meets the dam, when it begins to turn the grist mill. Without a sense of responsibility a man will develop no force of character. We should think of our responsibilities as opportunities. Life is most truly described, in the broad sense, as a great opportunity. That is the way Jesus looked at it. "Treasure hid in a field," "a pearl of great price," "talents intrusted to servants," these are the similes he used. They all emphasize the element of opportunity.

Life is, in short, the opportunity to find our true self, and until we have done that we can never hope to find the true God. If a man gain the whole world and lose himself it profiteth nothing, for a man can actually and permanently possess nothing except himself. Is a man entitled to say "I live," simply because he eats and sleeps and is physically well? A human life is far more complex. The first reed pipe gave forth music, but its descendant, the great organ, gives forth completed music in which the other parts are harmonized with the melody. The complete life is one in which the religious or spiritual note gathers into harmony the moral, the intellectual and the physical elements in our being, bringing them also into harmony with God, the source and fountain of life.

Could You Pray?

Forrest-Macready Riot.

The Astor Place riot occurred on May 9, 1849, while Macready, the English actor, was performing Macbeth at the Astor Place Opera house in New York city. A mob of 20,000 persons attacked the theatre, broke the windows with paving stones, and scattered the police force of 300 men. The Seventh Regiment was called out, and after a pitched battle, dispersed the mob and restored order. One hundred and forty-one of the regiment were injured, thirty-four of the mob were killed and many wounded. The riot grew out of a feud between Edwin Forrest, the American actor and Macready, the English actor. It is sometimes known as the Forrest-Macready riot.

Misled to Kiss Her.

On the eve of leaving London for Canada, Mrs. Brooke, who wrote "The History of Emily Montague," the first novel written in Canada, gave a farewell party, Hannah More, Johnson and Boswell being of the company. Dr. Johnson was obliged to leave early and apparently departed after wishing his hostess health and happiness. Shortly after a servant whispered to Mrs. Brooke that a gentleman was waiting below to speak to her. Running downstairs, the fair novelist found the venerable lexicographer. "Madam," said he, ponderously, "I sent for you downstairs that I might kiss you, which I did not choose to do before so much company."

Kidney Ailment

I want every person who suffers with any form of Kidney ailment, no matter how many remedies they have tried, no matter how many doctors they have consulted, no matter how serious the case, to give Munyon's Kidney Remedy a trial. You will be astonished to see how quickly it relieves all pains in the back loins and groins caused by the kidneys. You will be surprised to see how quickly it reduces the swelling in the feet and legs, also puffiness under the eyes, after taking a few doses of this remedy. You will be delighted to see the color returning to your cheeks and feel the thrill of vigor and good cheer. If your Urine is thick or milky, if it is pale and foamy, if it contains sediments or brickdust, if it is highly colored or has an offensive smell, if you urinate frequently, you should persist in taking this remedy until all symptoms disappear. We believe this remedy has cured more serious kidney ailments than all the Kidney medicines that have been compounded. Professor Munyon believes that the terrible death rate from Bright's Disease and Diabetes is unnecessary and will be greatly reduced by this remedy.

Go at once to your druggist and purchase a bottle of Munyon's Kidney remedy. If it fails to give satisfaction I will refund your money.—Munyon. For sale by all druggists. Price 25c.

Cured and Stayed Cured
By Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, the Great Kidney and Stomach Remedy.
In 1882 the Hon. Albert Merritt, a member of the New Jersey State Senate, Presidential Elector, and now Treasurer and General Manager of the Consolidated Bag Co., of 150 Nassau St., New York City, suffered severely from urinary and digestive trouble. He was advised to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and wrote: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is honestly entitled to the undivided credit of my cure. It went to the very root and source of my trouble." Recently, many years after, Mr. Merritt writes that his health still continues very good, and says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Favorite Remedy. It is certainly a wonderful medicine." His cure was a permanent one. There are thousands of others who have been cured by Favorite Remedy years ago, and they stay cured.

door, screw in a screw hook about two and a half inches long. Raise the door and bring the hook under the edge of the door. As the hen enters she touches the door a trifle, which releases the hook, and down comes the door.
I have made a small sketch to make it plainer. The hook is screwed into a cross piece far enough from the side to catch the door. I prefer slat doors and I have a door over the nest for convenience, but it is not essential.—C. M. Hayes.

Nest Boxes.
The nest is a very important matter. If the hen is permitted to have her way she will seek a secluded location, and in summer she prefers a cool place. During the winter period her desire is for a warm nest, where the warmth imparted the eggs will not be dissipated too rapidly. What we desire to allude to particularly is the nest box after warm weather begins. The nest box is the source from which lice often come, because the heat from the hen's body makes the conditions very favorable for the propagation of lice. The nests are not cleaned as often as they should be. At least once a week the nest box should be taken outside, the material removed and burned, and new material placed in the boxes. If any signs of lice appear, sponge the boxes lightly with kerosene and apply a lighted match thereto. A flame will run over the box, but will not burn it to any extent. After placing the new material in the box, dust the whole with fresh insect powder and place the nest in a cool and secluded location in the poultry house.

Dry Mash at Noon.
If fowls have access to all the fresh green food they care to consume, it is well to feed the noon meal of dry mash. Give only what they will eat up clean during the afternoon unless hopper feeding is used.

Practical Poultry Points.
Feeding skim-milk has a tendency to whiten the flesh.
It is more important to know the work of the individual hen than the average of the flock.
Overfeeding of green cut bone is apt to cause leg trouble, diarrhoea, bowel complaints and worms.
Keep breeders from head lice by the occasional application of a good lice powder, before and during hatching season.

an attempt to bron and, missing his hold, fell under the cars. A section man pulled him out and laid him on the platform. The boy made a grab for his hat that was just beyond his reach, and then realized that his other arm was broken and one leg gone. He began to beg us to kill him. They placed him on a stretcher, and some one ran for his mother, who lived just a block away. She came running, and as she knelt at his side, cried:

"My God, Frank, is this you!"
"Yes, mother," he replied, "and won't you pray for me?"
Wringing her hands, she sobbed: "O Frank, I can't pray! I don't know how!"

There on her knees, at the side of her dying boy, she turned to us and pleaded for some of us to pray for him, but we each one had to admit that we did not know how, and he died before us without a prayer. I never shall forget the anguish written on that poor mother's face. I do thank God that I have learned to pray since that time and to hold up before the throne of grace not only my own children, but those of prayerless parents about me.

Poor, But Rich.
A poor blind woman in Paris put twenty-seven francs into a plate at a missionary meeting. "You cannot afford so much," said one. "Yes, sir, I can," she answered. On being pressed to explain, she said: "I am blind, and I said to my fellow-straw-workers, 'How much money do you spend in a year for oil in your lamps when it is too dark to work nights?' They replied, 'Twenty-seven francs.' "So," said the poor woman, "I found that I save so much in the year, because I am blind and do not need a lamp, and I give it to shed light to the dark heathen lands."—Detroit News-Tribune.

Moral Constitution.
Let a man build up his moral constitution by thinking noble thoughts, derived from the habitual practice of reading good books, performing noble deeds, association with pure women and honorable men. Let a man walk in the spirit and he will not fulfill the lusts of the flesh.—Rev. William C. Stinsman.

Beneficent Power.
No matter how insignificant you may be, you can exert some beneficent power over the tide and flow of human passions, and diffuse a calm and blessed light on those that fall within your environment.—Cardinal James Gibbons.

A Stronger Assurance.
The faith of the heart is a stronger assurance than all the visions of the outward sense. When fortune smiles around me, I may think that I am happy; when sanctity and love breathe within me, I know it.

Inspiration of Self.
According to what a man is, is the quality and amount of the virtue that goes out of him, and he cannot cease to impart this peculiar life unless he sinks into the lethargy of death.—Sears.

It is notorious that the scarcity of labor the work on tea gardens is scamped to a very great extent, and the land upon which the tea is planted is not worked to give a fifth of what it is really capable of giving under a very high state of cultivation. The garden that produces ten maunds of tea an acre is considered to be doing wonders, but when we take into consideration the perfunctory manner in which the cultivation is carried out we might as well ask ourselves what such a garden might give were the land properly worked, the bushes properly treated and the leaf taken off always when it was ready.—Calcutta Statesman.

Presidents Native States.
The native state is often called the "Mother State." Figuring the three States, Virginia, Ohio and New York, it is interesting to note that seven president were born in Virginia, six in Ohio and three in New York. Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler and Taylor were born in Virginia; Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley and Taft in Ohio, and Van Buren, Fillmore and Roosevelt were born in New York.—Oil City Derrick.

or all underbrush etc. After this is done, he will commence the systematic planting of his Paragon chestnut trees, with which he has won fame and fortune. It is his intention to make the Columbia county chestnut farm the equal of his Northumberland county property, from which he harvested 3,000 bushels of chestnuts last year, which he sold at $3 a bushel.—Philadelphia Record.

Tournament in Chicago.
Chicago will be the scene of an extensive military tournament, combined with a naval spectacle off the lake front, provided the plans that are now being carefully considered by the conventional bureau committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce are realized. The proposal is to have a tournament in which all branches of the regular army, shall take part. Infantry, cavalry and field artillery are included, as well as the signal service, and possibly a balloon corps. The troops, it is suggested, are to be encamped in Washington Park, where most of the program is to be carried out. A gathering of about 5,000 troops is contemplated.

Lincoln as a Literary Man

1809—The Lincoln Centenary—1909

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

LINCOLN'S STUMP SPEECH IN THE HAYFIELD.

Lincoln quoting Shakespeare with such power that he suggested the president had missed his calling and should have taken to the stage. Lincoln, however, played on a larger stage, with the ages for his audience.

Terseness, clearness, unity, are the most prominent characteristics of the martyr president's style. Where did this child of the frontier learn his use of English? Some of his utterances have become classics. How did he, with but a few weeks' schooling in his entire life, learn to write gems as durable as the language?

He himself has answered the question. He read Bunyan, Aesop, Shakespeare, Burns and the Bible. He could scarcely have had better models. He did more. When the traveling politicians stopped at his father's house they talked of the questions then agitating the country. The child had difficulty in understanding them and after climbing the ladder to his bed of leaves in the loft would lie awake for hours seeking to puzzle out what they meant. Then he would try to phrase their sentiments in simpler and clearer language, in words that any child could understand. Does not that shed a flood of light on the marvelous terseness, simplicity and clearness of his style? I know of nothing more inspiring except Benjamin Franklin's at-

ABRAM LINCOLN had the soul of a poet. He loved Shakespeare and Burns, whom he quoted by rote, and had in his memory many fugitive pieces to be brought forth as suited his mood. The favorite of all these was one he himself made famous beginning, "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" Holmes' "Last Leaf" was also frequently on his lips, as were many others in a similar vein.

LOOK OUT FOR ROTS AND SPOTS!

Those people, outside of Pennsylvania, who have been holding their noses over the rotten egg scandal unearthed in Philadelphia had better get nosey around home. "Spots and rots" don't stay in spots. Get nosey, New York! Look lively there, outside the Keystone State!

On March 1, 1909, the Pennsylvania legislature passed one law we're sure isn't rotten if it does deal with a rotten industry.

In the Keystone State he who now deals in rotten eggs, offers them for sale or purchases them for use in food becomes subject to a fine of from $200 to $1,000 or imprisonment of from three to nine months, or both.

Well, the "rot and spot" men are now up against it. They can't do business in Pennsylvania. They dare not ship them to another state, for when their chief dealer attempted to ship twenty-five crates to New York he was promptly arrested and held in $500 bail for United States court.

But what will become of all these "rots and spots" that sold at $1.75 a crate when fresh eggs sold at $12, and what will become of these odoriferous operators of this rotten industry?

Well, they will just cross the line into those states where the dairy and food commissioners swing in hammocks and drink rich cream at the government's expense.

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q. Can you tell me why so many chicks in my hatches fail to absorb the yolk and die at the end of the hatch? A. Too much heat weakens the bowels of the chick, and it fails to assimilate the yolk.

Q. What is the length of a gape-worm? Which is the larger, male or female? How long does it take their eggs to hatch? A. Male, one-eighth of an inch; female, five-eighths. Six to forty days, according to weather conditions; dampness favorable.

Q. Why is it that pheasant breeders are advised not to raise birds on or near sheep pasture? I have read this often, but never read the reason. Is the ground tainted? A. The reason is that sheep drop more or less wool. The birds swallow it, and wool plugs the opening to the gizzard and kills them.

Q. How do you proceed to heal a gosling's wing that is broken at the first joint? A. The bone will not knit. Take a sharp knife, cut off the broken part neatly, touch the raw wound with carbolic acid and leave the rest to nature.

Q. Do hens get along better with a male or without? A. Hens are better contented with the head of the pen present. He leads them, is their protector and warns them of danger. Without a male present hens are continually scrapping, but when the boss is there warring sisters sit up and take notice.

HOME BOOSTING HINTS.

Optimism spells outlook. There is no outlook for the pessimist who sits down and complains because things are not coming his way. What he needs to do is to get up and go out and yank things his way by the scruff of their necks.

Trade at home and keep the home cash in circulation right around home. A bargain that dries up the lifeblood of the community by transfusing the blood to some other place is not so much of a bargain as it appears to the unthinking person.

Energize! That's a mighty forceful word, one of the most forceful in the whole unabridged dictionary. If you energize you will make things hum, and by making things hum you will do the things you want to do. This applies to individuals as well as to towns or communities collectively.

Every individual is a unit as well as a spoke in the wheel. If some individuals want to turn one way and others want to turn other ways, how is the wheel going to move? Think of your community as a wheel and turn with it—forward; not backward. If the wheel is now turning backward, face about all your spokes and change the direction.

Small town people sometimes fall into the habit of running down their own place in conversation. This is almost as bad as saying you wish you had married another woman instead of your wife. If you said that and your wife heard of it, probably you would have a chance to get another woman. But you'll never have much of a chance to get another town until you improve the one you're in so that you'll love it for its own sake. Be kind to your home place and it will be kind to you.

A Great Man.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is a great man?"

"A great man, my son, is one who manages to gather about him a whole lot of assistants who will take the blame for his mistakes while he gets the credit for their good ideas."

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

Sixty-five New Granges in February.

National Secretary Freeman reports that in the United States sixty-five new granges were organized during the month of February. This is the largest number for a single month in thirty-five years. This is owing no doubt to many reasons, first, perhaps, that last December many new men were placed in the master's chair in the various granges.

reproduce it for the benefit of the family. Whenever there was a lull in the hayfield he would mount a stump and deliver a speech. At home he would write on the wooden shovel and shave it off, repeating the performance until the shovel was all shaved away. His means of expression were so limited he had to be terse. It would be a public blessing if all authors were forced to learn the same fine economy of words.

Lincoln even tried to write verse, but why detract from his fame by reproducing his poetry? It was about as bad as it could have been. Nevertheless he had a poet's soul, even though he was not a success at jingling his words and chopping them off at certain machine lengths. Few American poems contain more poetry than some of Lincoln's prose.

I remember once seeing in the offices of the New York World this motto: "Accuracy, terseness, accuracy. J. P." On the next post it occurred again: "Accuracy, terseness, accuracy. J. P." It was hung all over the reporters' rooms. It was one of the secrets of Joseph Pulitzer's power in building up the World and his other papers.

Mr. Lincoln's style answers that test perfectly. He was accurate because he could not be otherwise. He had to state even his opponent's position fully, fairly and completely. He could not be vague and uncertain in his use of facts. His logical mind would not permit him to wander from the truth. He was just as accurate in the statement of a principle as in the statement of a fact. He reduced everything to its primary elements. His arguments thus were as clear as sunlight. Accuracy was in his mental constitution. Terseness he imposed on himself.

The address at Cooper Union is an excellent example of his longer efforts. An examination of it gives a good idea of Lincoln's methods. It is compacted of facts. There is no flamboyant oratory, no appeal to prejudice or passion, no cheap parade of language or tricks of phrase. He takes the one theme of the attitude of the country's founders on the subject of slavery and proves it, demonstrates it, until there is scarcely another word to be said on the subject. He shows beyond any question of doubt that they had in view the gradual limitation and ultimate extinction of the "peculiar institution." With Lincoln it was facts, facts, facts, logic, logic, logic. He gestured little, his chief gesture being a downright sledge hammer blow. He was terribly in earnest. His voice was high and penetrating, but not unpleasant. At first he was awkward, but soon forgot himself and all awkwardness left him. He dealt with the substance of things, and that gave him his power.

bred. The Bronze was best of all, and the White Holland won second. The Bronze is the world's favorite.

Seven million turkeys were raised in the United States last year, one western state shipping 800,000 pounds to relieve the famine in the east, and it was nearly all Bronze.

Why is the Bronze most popular? It is most vigorous and largest, ranging in weight from twelve to fifty pounds.

The body is large, long, broad, deep, round, plump, full, carrying more meat than other varieties, with a flavor

The White Holland, though smaller, has very fine qualities and is the world's second choice.

It comes as a sport from the other varieties and, we are told, was first bred in Australia and was first called the Australian White.

By crossing with White Sports from the Bronze it has been gaining in weight and vigor every year. It is a magnificent, beautiful bird.

DON'TS.

Don't let the pup eat the turklets up. You are not running a dog ranch.

Don't trade fancy eggs to the grocer when Cheap John's around. He'll get 'em and set 'em.

Don't relate the history of your eggs to a customer if they are haymow fruit. Too long a song.

Don't allow strangers to butt into the duck yards, and don't let the ducklings slop up the brooders.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

The weak chicks in a hatch generally straggle along to the seventh day. Most of them just starve to death. We always go over a hatch before putting them into the brooder, and all weaklings and chicks with deformities get their quietus.

If you are arranging to build a poultry house, now is the time. Materials are not so high, and labor, skilled and otherwise, is plentiful. Build early, and your building will be perfectly dried out to house young stock before the early frosts.

As a sour swill barrel is a breeder of foul odors and a center from which flies swarm to the dinner table, so also is it a place where chicks and turklets oft make their last drowning squawk.

The old idea that sassafras limbs for roosts prevent lice is as erratic as the saying, "If a man marries on Sunday he will be mad on Monday."

The idea that planer shavings in nests keep out the pests cannot be proved so easily as the saying, "If a man gets full on Sunday he'll have swelled head on Monday."

When a hen lays an egg part of her egg apparatus protrudes. When the egg drops she stands and waits until the part is drawn back. If the moist mucous membrane gets covered with sharp shavings and these are drawn into the delicate organism will she lay a wooden nutmeg next time? No; inflammation or gangrene may lay your hen.

The hollow comb that disqualifies rose comb roosters at a show is often caused by males picking each other through a "guaranteed chicken proof fence." One inch mesh is the only real wire protection.

As the season for hidden nests in hot haymows is now at hand it is wise to test those eggs before selling. Just as a rotten egg sometimes spoils a politician's face, likewise the explosion of a bad egg on a customer's table may shatter a farmer's reputation, though he be ten miles away.

Do not think because your fowls are now on full range that you need not supply grit.

Fowls running over and over land soon clean off the gravel. Much of the gravel is so soft that it aids digestion but little. Keep that hopper full summer and winter.

The advertisement of imported stock should not allure American fanciers, especially English Leghorns and Minorcas. They are very much different in shape, very heavy, and their combs are tremendous. They would be prize curiosities, but not prize winners, at our shows.

Something Wrong.

"Oh, dear, John, I just know I shall not like this dress!"

"What's the matter now?" asked her husband without laying down his pipe or looking from his paper. "I thought you said you liked it."

"That's just it. I was so sure I wouldn't like it when I got it home, though I liked it well enough in the store. And now that I am home I do like it, and therefore I know I will not like it when it is made up. Now I don't know what to do."

"Search me," grunted the cruel man, turning to the sporting page.—Puck.
