One Act Play Night Is Pleasing Innovation

Newmarket—Interested Newmarket citizens turned out Wednesday night to witness, as far as it is possible to determine, the first one-act play night in the history of Newmarket High school. This first attempt has proved successful and will give the younger students experience which will help them become familiar with the stage rituals for the Junior and Senior productions which have proved a favorite with the parents and friends in the past.

"Last Night's Papers"

The eighth grade under the direction of Mrs. Fay Phair presented an amusing sketch of family trials and tribulations, appropriately named "Last Night's Paper" because it concerned the concentrated family efforts to find a certain paper, from which each person wanted to save a clipping. The young folks who were deeply interested in a certain "lonely hearts" ad.

David Dearborn as Bobby Harris was a tall fifteen year old, interested in playing his trombone, in sports, and girls, especially the intelligent and dignified type.

Richard Gilbert did a remarkable job as Casey Jones the rather awkward and easily embarrassed sixteen year old boy, who doesn't quite have the nerve to ask the girl of his dreams for a date.

Louisa Wardman played the part of small, dainty, quick Anita Harris, a typical older sister in the eyes of her brother Bobby.

Madeline Nutting filled the part of Lenore Chipworth, Anita's tall and dignified classmate. In a conspiracy the two girls insert a lonely hearts ad in the local paper, which is unsuspectingly answered by the two boys.

Larry Berman and Fay Carpenter played the parts of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris who are also involved in the search for last night's paper and unwittingly aid in carrying out the plot and bringing the young folks together.

Back stage workers were Prompter, Phyllis Sewall; curtain, Kenneth Varney; general manager, George Hauschel; stage manager, Paul Russell.

"It Happened to Sweeney"

The ninth grade presented "It Happened to Sweeney", directed by Mrs. Luida Raymond. The story is centered around Sweeney who appears to be the most important player on the school ball team, but is troubled with low grades. His friends are naturally concerned and their efforts, sometimes to help and often not to help him put him in a ticklish spot.

Evelyn Bentley displays a kind hearted attitude towards the students in spite of her stern appearance as Miss Nancy Perkins, school secretary.

Martha Knowles played the

Thief Enters Ferland Home Twice in Week

Newmarket—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferland on Railroad street was broken into, the rooms ransacked and various sums of money taken on two different occasions this week. Entrance was made by cutting a screen and forcing a window at the rear of the home the second time. Local police are investigating the break and theft.

Eileen Parent Is Chosen For Girls' State

Newmarket—Miss Eileen Parent was named by Robert G. Durgin auxiliary to represent it at Girls' State in Durham the week of July 13th at its meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion hall. Because of illness of Mrs. Florence Moreau, Mrs. Rose Houle, the first vice president, presided.

It was voted to attend Community church services May 25th, Memorial Sunday, meeting at the Legion hall at 10:30. It was voted to attend, but not to march in the Memorial Day parade.

The date for the annual Poppy sale was advanced to Friday, May 16th. Tickets for the hope chest, which will be used to defray convention expenses, were distributed. Mrs. Florence Moreau, Mrs. Ruth Dalton, Mrs. Ruth Behan were named delegates for the convention in Keene and Mrs. Mary For-

Special School Program For Sisters of Holy Cross Centennial Celebration

Glee Club Gives 'Musical Clock' Next Wednesday

Newmarket—"A Musical Clock", an historical musical review, with gorgeous costumes, colorful dance numbers and tuneful group and solo singing will be presented at the Town hall by the Newmarket High school all-girl Glee Club, next Wednesday, May 14, under the direction of Mrs. Barbara McKnight.

The review will trace the course of popular songs through the years from the "Gay Nineties" to the present day and will include such favorites as "Stardust", "Begin the Beguine", "Sweethearts", "After the Ball" and "In the Good Old Summertime."

Special dance numbers were arranged by the dance committee including: Deborah Waugh, chairman; Pat Shelton, Virginia Levesque, Marilyn Abbott, Carolyn Char-est and Joan St. Laurent. These girls have also made the colorful costumes which they will use in their dances.

Business arrangements have been made by Marjorie Audette and Annie Wardman. Mistress of ceremonies is Norma Brisson and Thomas Rooney is pianist.

Madbury Society is Thirty Years Old

Madbury—Mrs. Daniel Dayton was hostess to the Missionary society of the Madbury church yesterday when it celebrated its 30th anniversary. Plans were made for the County Firemen association supper to be held later this month.

Greenland Scouts Row to Nany Island

Four Greenland Boy Scouts made an overnight camping trip to Nany's island in Great Bay. They were John Flanders, William Hamel, Norman Nichols and Richard Nelson.

Mr. Bouras Adds Gift Department In Local Store

Newmarket—Nick Bouras has redecorated his Ice Cream parlor on Main street and has added a gift department with a large assortment of choice items. A special shipment of gifts is arriving in time for Mothers' Day and there is a nice selection for weddings, birthdays and other special holidays.

The entire store looks very modern with 24 foot light, gay, scenic walls and new booths finished in orange, blue and tan. Greeting cards and candy are displayed in new counters, making choices here pleasant and exciting.

Mr. Bouras has offered his customers a 10 percent discount on nearly all merchandise

The Sisters of Holy Cross, who conduct St. Mary's school in Newmarket, are celebrating the 100th year of existence with a special program for the children in the school hall this afternoon. The parents and friends of the school have been invited to come and the exact nature of the program is to be a surprise for the children and the guests.

The Sisters of Holy Cross came to Newmarket in 1910 and opened the first school in what is now the VFW hall. Three sisters arrived here August 10, 1910 to take charge of preparing and opening the new school under the supervision of Rev. Father O'Reilly, pastor of the church. They were Sr. Mary of St. Robert, superior and teacher of French, Sister Mary of St. Paul, teacher of English, and Sr. Mary of St. Elzear in charge of the housework.

School opened that first year on August 20th with 238 pupils. The number of pupils is about the same today but instead of two religious teachers, there are now eight re-

Junior Prom Is Friday, May 9th

Newmarket—One of the most outstanding and colorful events of the school year, the Junior Prom, will be held at the Rockingham Ballroom Friday, May 9. Music will be furnished by Johnny Howe and his orchestra.

The colorful grand march, set off by the bright lights and the lovely gowns will be led by class president David Mongeon, followed by Sam Roper, vice-president; Mary Ryan, secretary; Dorothy Roy, treasurer; and Dean Russell, student council representative with their partners.

The committee completing the arrangements for the prom, under the direction of Mrs. Fay Phair, class advisor, are as follows: Orchestra, Mary Ryan, Dean Russell, David Mongeon and Aristotle Bouras; Hall, David Mongeon, Dean Russell; Grand March, Aline Babinneau, Janet Thompson, Rita Clinfo, Ted Fleming, Cecile Labrecque, Sam Roper; Publicity, Eileen Parent, Elaine Hale, Carroll Pataf and Dorothy Roy.

Max Bomze Finds Newburyport Plan Brings Results

Newmarket—Max Bomze, local Woman's Shop proprietor, has put into effect the Newburyport plan, reducing his merchandise 10 percent, and was enthusiastic this week with the results he is attaining. He claims that a great many more people have been in the store and that his sales have been higher.

Several other local merchants are reducing prices, varying in amounts and varying on the type of merchandise reduced, but Mr. Bomze has given an overall 10 percent reduction throughout his store.

Parents Take Wedding Vows With Eldest Son

Newmarket—A wedding of unusual interest will be solemnized Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church when Miss Laurette Rose Leblanc, daughter of Bartholemi Leblanc of 12 Elder street, becomes the bride of Roland A. Rousseau, a returned war veteran, and when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rousseau of 7 Spring street, parents of the bridegroom, accompany the couple to the altar to renew their own wedding vows on their 25th wedding anniversary.

Rev. Hector A. Benoit, D.D., pastor of the church, will officiate and there will be special music and special floral decorations. Miss Estelle Leblanc, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor for her, and Miss Lucille Hamel, bride's maid. The best man will be Paul Rousseau, brother of the bridegroom, and the usher, Victor Baillargeron. Witnesses will be Bartholemi Leblanc and Adelarde Rousseau, uncle of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rousseau will be unaccompanied.

The bride has chosen a marquise and satin gown fashioned with a square neck and long sleeves, both lace trimmed, a tight bodice, full skirt extending into a long train and a finger tip length veil caught in a crown effect. She will carry a shower bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor is wearing blue marquisette over satin with a round, high neck, rows of frills, and made along Princess lines. Her matching veil is shoulder length and she will carry red rose buds. Miss Hamel's dress is identical and in pink.

Mrs. Rousseau is wearing a powder blue two piece dress with a small flowered hat to match and a corsage. Several members of both Mr. and Mrs. Rousseau's family who were present at their wedding 25 years ago will be here Saturday for the anniversary mass at which their eldest son will wed. They were married in St. Martin's church in Somersworth and have lived in Newmarket ever since coming here directly from their honeymoon. They have three living sons.

About 250 invitations have been extended for the joint reception at Eagles hall. Music will be furnished by Ozzie Jolie's orchestra and refreshments will be served. Friends and relatives are expected from Somersworth, Epping, Dover and from Fitchburg, Gardner and Lowell, Mass.

The young couple will leave about 2:30 for a two weeks honeymoon in Boston and Montreal and will make their home in their own apartment at 7 Spring street on their return.

The bride was graduated from St. Mary's school in 1941 and from Newmarket High school in 1945. She is employed locally. The bridegroom attended St. Mary's school and High school, served in the Infantry for nearly four years, part of which time was spent in England and on the continent. He is employed at Turcotte's Hardware store.

MARKETING with Marjorie

One of my pet theories is that more families would eat better breakfasts if we homemakers would get more variety into our morning menus. So how about serving a different kind of fruit or cereal, or eggs fixed a new way tomorrow morning? Bet your family will sit up and take notice... and "seconds"!

CEREAL STARS

Some like them hot and some like them cold, but I find that everybody at my house likes delicious SUNNYFIELD CEREALS. That's okay with me because they're mighty nourishing and thrifty. Versatile, too... as you'll see from the package recipes. Try them! You'll find many varieties at your A&P!

THE EGG AND YOU

If you can answer these questions correctly you're an "eggpert"!

Q. Are white eggs or brown eggs better?

A. Shell color has no bearing on quality. The breed of chicken determines the color.

Q. Should eggs be washed before you store them?

A. No. Water destroys the film that keeps out air and odors.

Q. Why are A&P EGGS always so good?

A. Because they're selected and inspected by experts and kept at the proper temperature to safeguard their high quality.

BRIGHT BEGINNERS

Syrups from canned fruits are rich in healthful vitamins and minerals, but I couldn't get my family to drink them till I hit on the idea of combining them with tangy A&P GRAPEFRUIT JUICE. It adds the extra zip these sweet syrups need... and extra vitamin C as well. I always keep a few cans of this refreshing grapefruit juice in my refrigerator, along with a jar into which I pour all left-over fruit syrups.

THIS TAKES THE CAKE

Looking for a dessert that's super-simple to make and simply super to eat? Then here's the recipe for you: Cook together 1 cup of diced rhubarb, 1/4 cup of sugar and 2 tbsps. of water till rhubarb is tender. Add 1 cup of your favorite berries, cook 1 minute and then pour over 4 slices of toasted JANE PARKER POUND CAKE... that wonderfully fresh, fine-textured cake that comes from the A&P and tastes as if it had just come from your own oven!

Introductions

DO YOU get tongue-tied and flustered when you have to make introductions? It's easy to avoid embarrassment when you know the rules.

In introducing a man and a woman, speak the woman's name first unless the man is very old or very distinguished. If the people are both the same sex, present the younger to the older. As "Mother," this is Janet Smith and "Mrs. Lane, do you know Miss Young?"

Worried about your table manners? Note-writing got you down? Our Reader Service booklet No. 43 covers these and many other phases of everyday etiquette. ## "Off we go" NEWS OF FLIERS AND FLYING

AIRPORT CHATTER

Airplane dusting of farm crops was studied at a conference of pilots, farmers and scientists at Rutgers university, New Brunswick, N. J., which was believed to be one of the first meetings of its kind ever held.

Discussions centered around new insecticides and fungicides useful in large scale dusting operations. Weather problems affecting airplane dusting also were discussed. . . . The city of Clarinda, Iowa, was granted title to a 294-acre tract formerly used as a prisoner of war camp. The property was decided over by War Assets administration with the stipulation that it be used as an airport. Prior approval of a $90,000 airport bond issue and a federal grant of $53,000 will provide funds for developing the field. . . . Use of light aircraft has been found effective by the Ogden, Utah, police department. The department recently has utilized small planes to search for a missing deer hunter, found stranded in the rugged Wasatch mountains, and to locate a sheep herder lost on the desert.

Out of consideration for fox whelps at Owatonna, Minn., a flight of America's mightiest army bombers changed course. Informed by Wayne C. Liden, manager of a fur farm near Owatonna that the roar of even one plane makes the female fox extremely nervous and fearful for her young, army officials revised the scheduled course for a flight of B-29's making a simulated attack on Minneapolis.

CAA LISTS 4,431 PORTS

In connection with the national airport plan under the federal aid airport act, Civil Aeronautics administration has listed 4,431 airports which should be constructed or improved during the next three years. From the list will be selected projects to be included in the fiscal 1948 construction program, depending on the amount of funds appropriated by congress and relative urgency of each project.

Included on the list are 417 large airports (those with paved runways of 4,300 feet or longer), 3,350 smaller airports and 164 seaplane bases. Grand total cost of construction is estimated at $985,800,000, which would be divided between federal funds of $441,000,000 and sponsor's share of $544,800,000.

Of the 4,431 projects, 2,550 would be entirely new airports while 1,881 are existing fields requiring improvement.

A dramatic example of the use of air freight when combined with a bit of ingenuity spaced some 20 families in Alaska the necessity of spending the winter in igloos or other improvised housing. The ingenuity came from Williamson, Inc., of Sheboygan Falls, Wis., which built 20 prefabricated houses in such small sections that Northwest Airlines was able to fly them to Anchorage, Alaska.

FASTEST BOMBER . . . America's fastest bomber, Consolidated Vultee's jet-propelled XB-46, is completing flight tests at Muroc army airfield. Under secret development for two years, the XB-46 is powered by four J-35 turbo-jet engines housed in two low-slung nacelles. The needle-shaped fuselage is 106 feet long, only seven feet less than the 113-foot wingspan.

PREFER FACING BACK

Ninety-four per cent of transcontinental army air transport command passengers prefer to sit facing the rear of the airplane, it was shown in a five months' survey. The command conducted the experiment on its "statesman" flight between Washington and Fairfield, Calif. Of the 1,020 passengers queried in the survey, 959 favored reversed seating. Riding backward, ATC surgeons report, is safer in the case of crash landings since passengers have the entire seat for support.

EXPORTS MOUNT

Figures released by the commerce department disclose that the United States exported $115,300,000 in merchandise by airline, or a total of 22,700,000 pounds, during 1946. Imports by air were valued at $60,200,000 and weighed 7,100,000 pounds. Eight airports accounted for 95 per cent of the total value of imports. La Guardia field leading with 54 per cent. Miami had 29 per cent; Brownsville, Tex., Los Angeles, Fort Worth, Dallas, 2 per cent; San Francisco, San Antonio, 1 per cent.

Ten Rules for Happiness

You've read, you've thought, you've heard a good deal about happiness. You've seen people seek it, most of them unsuccessfully. You wonder whether there is really any way to guarantee yourself as much happiness as you think everyone has a right to expect.

Maybe these ten rules from the Cleveland Academy of Medicine will help. A learned committee from this academy studied the matter. What it sought was a formula for happier living.

The rules are:

Have a hobby. A hobby is a refuge, a storm cellar into which you can duck when stress and storms on the surface of your life buffet you about too much.

Develop a philosophy of life. That simply means to have a guide by which to live. A life without one is a helter-skelter existence without plan, without goal, without the comfort of ideals or truth.

Share your thoughts. Companionship is essential to personality and to mental health. If anyone lives too long with his own thoughts they can generate explosive qualities that destroy. Confess, confide, consult someone you like.

Face your fears and have it out. The world is filled with people running away from fears, but never quite escaping them. Face yours. Overcome them boldly.

Balance fantasy in your life with fact. Dream, for all normal beings must, but balance your dreams with acts. Don't fall into the habit of dreaming your life away.

Beware of alluring escapes from your troubles but face them realistically and work out a reasonable answer.

Exercise moderately in order that you may have physical as well as mental health.

Love wisely, for life without love is life without light.

Don't worry.

Trust in time and be patient.

There you have the ten rules for happiness. They seem almost too simple to be effective.

But they are the rules based upon eternal truths of human nature and psychology, and if you will adopt and follow them they will do some interesting things to your own life.

Defective Vision Traced To Emotional Disturbances

Prolonged emotional disturbances can cause permanent injury to the eyes in persons with unstable sympathetic nervous systems, reports Dr. David O. Harrington, assistant clinical professor of ophthalmology in the University of California medical school.

Dr. Harrington reported the analysis of a large number of cases of defective vision in young men examined by him while on active duty with the navy during World War II. Several varieties of ocular diseases were brought about by various emotional disturbances in large numbers of young soldiers and sailors, he said.

The physician said that the young men in whom these psychologically induced ocular diseases were found had inherited a deficient autonomic nervous system which controls certain involuntary muscles in the blood vessel walls and thereby affects blood circulation.

When such individuals are subjected to severe emotional disturbances there is an involuntary, severe contraction of blood vessels in various parts of the body. In the case of the eyes this contraction may cause marked changes in the retina or sensitive nerve layer at the back of the eye. If the disturbance is short-lived, these physical changes may disappear, but if it lasts a long time the damage may be permanent.

A Pilgrimage To New Hampshire

The Pilot received a letter recently from a man in California whose ancestors came from New Hampshire and who was writing to get information about this state because he and his family want to make a "pilgrimage" here this summer. This is the season of vacationists but most of them come from the large Eastern cities. It is a rather startling fact to find that we are old enough for far Westerners to return to the land of their ancestors.

What will they find here?

When you begin taking stock of our advantages, so familiar that we don't always recognize them as advantages, we have a lot to show these people who have been brought up on stories of "back East in New Hampshire." While we are a small state we have mountains, hills, forests, lakes and seacoast—truly a remarkable assortment of physical advantages.

We have the old Yankee traditions, together with the colorful European customs which large numbers of immigrants have brought here. We have a magnificent assortment of summer entertainment—stock theatres, fairs, exhibitions, regattas, sporting events, hobby schools, and advantages offered by the University of New Hampshire.

Boating is becoming more and more popular; fishing has its enthusiasts in the streams, lakes, and ocean. Last summer there were 7,507 motor boats registered in this state and several were on the beautiful tidewater lake. The Great Bay, right here in this area. The small boats which can be carried on top of the family car are becoming more and more popular for single day excursions.

For those who delight in quaint country living, there are many communities where the "general" store is still the center of social life, and country folks retain many of the "notions" of their ancestors. The auction and the antique shop are popular institutions. A desire to visit the historic old homes such as the "Warner House", the "John Paul Jones House" of Portsmouth, one time capital of the state, and similar buildings where history has been in the making for 300 years is often expressed. Many natives who are entertaining such guests go to these homes for the first time. They are with us always but we seldom take time to enjoy them.

Our sea food—lobsters, clams, oysters, fresh caught fish—are all a real novelty. And so one could continue enumerating the advantages the state and the area has to offer its summer guests—advantages we could be a lot happier if we enjoyed and appreciated ourselves.

Several special services are scheduled at St. Mary's church in the near future.

There will be a Silver Anniversary mass Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rousseau whose son is being married at the same time.

A class of small children will receive First Holy Communion Thursday, May 15th.

There was a special mass at 8:30 this morning honoring the Sisters of Holy Cross who are observing the 100th anniversary of the founding of the order. A program was given in the school this afternoon built around the theme, "How the children spend a day with the Sisters of Holy Cross."

Forty Hours devotion with regular services for such an event will be held next Sunday and Monday, closing Tuesday morning. Confirmation is scheduled for May 25th.

About 20 solicitors are visiting local parishioners this week for the annual Catholic Charities drive. Painters have begun burning off the old paint and will repaint St. Mary's church the same color.

Rev. Mother Provincial of Manchester was a guest at the local convent this past weekend and visited school Monday.

Rockingham Youth Club Meets

The Central Rockingham Youth club held its monthly meeting in the Kensington town hall, conducted by Jackie Dow, vice-president.

Mary L. Sanborn, assistant state 4-H club leader and guest speaker, discussed health, courtesy and the history of the 4-H symbol, the four leaf clover. Movies were shown on proper driving techniques and the need of a pure water supply. Popular and square dancing followed the meeting.

A special committee composed of Georgette Dupre, Gene Plouff and Gilbert Tuck of Exeter; Lawrence Nason, Kingston; Laura Barnes, North Hampton; and Mary Bentley, Newmarket was appointed to meet May 8 to make plans for 4-H leaders' banquet to be held in Exeter May 28.

A softball game is scheduled for the next meeting to be held in Kensington, the first Friday in June.

Glee Club Girls

Newmarket—Members of the Newmarket High school Glee Club have chosen symbolic glee club pins all active members will be entitled to wear. The pins will be gold and will be made in the form of a gold staff with several musical notes on it, connected by a small chain to a gold "N" for Newmarket.

IN THESE UNITED STATES

Memorial Service Will Note First Landing in New World

WNU Features.

JAMESTOWN, VA.—Tribute to that intrepid band of colonists who debarked on Jamestown beach May 13, 1607, to mark the first landing of permanent English settlers in the New World will be paid at annual commemorative ceremonies here Sunday, May 11.

In the hallowed little Jamestown Memorial church religious services will be conducted as the main feature of the observance. Jamestown Day, as May 13 is designated, has been observed under sponsorship of the Association for Preservation of Virginia Antiquities annually for half a century.

The tower of the original Jamestown church, long the only visible relic of Old Jamestown, dates back to 1639, perhaps longer. Of particular interest are the loopholes in the tower through which colonists fired at Indian marauders. Original and unrestored, the tower is constructed of hand-made bricks and mortar, laid in English bond.

Built as Memorial.

In 1907, the tri-centennial of the founding of Anglo-Saxon civilization in the Western Hemisphere, the memorial church was erected over the massive three-foot foundations, buttresses and tiled chancel of the church of 1639. The old church was burned during Bacon's rebellion in 1676, rebuilt not long after, but at some unknown period in the 18th century was abandoned and gradually fell into ruins.

There was a still earlier log church with cobblestone foundations, fragments of which may be seen in the graveyard. It was in this church, probably built in 1617, that the first legislative assembly in the New World was convened July 30, 1619 with Sir George Yeardley, the royal governor, presiding. This historic event took place more than a year before the Mayflower set sail from Plymouth.

Back of the chancel railing among the remains of the 1639 church may be seen the "Knight's Tomb," formerly inlaid with brass, which was stolen at an unknown time. It is the only tomb of its kind in America and is supposed to be that of the same Sir George Yeardley, who died at Jamestown in 1627.

Countless dead are buried in the ancient graveyard, which has been restored by the National Society of Colonial Dames of America. Although the actual number of graves and the names of most of their occupants have been lost in the shadows of time, a number of interesting old tombstones still remain.

Grave of President.

An ancient tombstone marks the final resting place of Benjamin Harrison I, ancestor of Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence. Buried nearby is another Benjamin Harrison, ninth president of the United States.

The epitaph on the tombstone of William Sherwood proclaims—for all the modern world to see—that he was "a great sinner." The inscription, legend insists, was made in accordance with a provision of his will.

An intruding sycamore tree, now more than 130 years old, has disturbed the eternal sleep of the Rev. James Blair, founder of the College of William and Mary, and of his wife, Sarah Harrison Blair. They began their long sleep side by side, but the tombstones have been pushed far apart by the misdirected tree, which now has fragments of the stones embedded in its trunk.

Program Announced.

Officiating at the commemorative religious service will be the Rt. Rev. William A. Brown, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of southern Virginia.

The historical address will be given by Paul Green, author of the historical drama, "The Lost Colony."

Revamped Communications

Forty years ago Lee de Forest gave his invention, the three-element electronic tube, to the world. It completely changed the methods of "wireless" communication. It took the place of the arc and spark for generating electromagnetic waves, producing beautifully uniform waves which made possible the use of voice instead of the Morse code for communication. It substituted also for the variety of inefficient detectors and made use of the loudspeaker possible, for it could receive, detect and amplify its own waves. Recognition extended to De Forest, in the form of financial reward of scholarly honors, has been very inadequate. Next to atomic energy the De Forest tube holds the record for the speed with which it was applied to an unnumbered array of purposes.

Foresee Big Population Increase in California

By 1960, California's population may be nearly double its 1940 size, already having scored a record 34 per cent increase since Pearl Harbor according to a report formulated by the California Reconstruction and Reemployment commission. Maximum anticipated population of California in January, 1960, is 12.5 million, double the 6.2 million 1940 population and 4.2 million more than the current 9.3 million estimated population of the state.

Biggest factor in California's current and expected population increase is migration to the state from other parts of the country. An estimated 1.8 million people already have moved to California since 1940, and if state predictions are correct, as many as 700,000 more people will become California residents before the decade is ended.

Authors of the forecast do not expect it to be mathematically exact because of the unpredictable forces acting on population. Social, economic, and biological factors were considered, however, and predictions stated in terms of anticipated minimums and maximums annually for the next 15 years. California population growth varies largely with economic conditions according to researchers. "Contrary to popular belief," they report, "the settlement of newcomers in California has almost invariably been larger during periods of widespread prosperity" than during depression.

Newmarket Places in Mathematics Contest

Newmarket—Two teams of high school students representing Newmarket High school, participated in the 17th annual Scholarship Day examinations held at Keene Teachers' college Saturday. Examinations were also given for other schools at Plymouth Teachers' college, under the auspices of the state Department of Education, for New Hampshire high schools and academies.

The Newmarket mathematics team, composed of Marjorie Audette, Caroline Wawrzkievicz and John Kent placed third in the mathematics examination, preceded by Hancock and Keene. The algebra team was made up of Norma Brisson, Mary Bentley, and John Roussel. Sally Barker, Annie Wardman, and Dorothy Zwiercan also made the trip to make a personal interview as part of their applications for the college. The groups were accompanied by Miss Catherine Stubb and John P. Stowe teachers at the High school.

After registration, students representing about 30 New Hampshire schools attended an assembly where a welcome was extended by Dr. Lloyd P. Young, president and greetings were given by Richard Mills and Jean Harding, representing the men and women students of the college. The K. T. C. Glee club sang two selections.

After the hour examinations dinner was served in the college lunch room and while the examinations were being corrected the students toured the college classrooms and dormitories. An exhibition of swimming and life saving techniques was given in the college pool by several college students.

The scheduled baseball game between Keene and Plymouth Teachers' college was postponed because of bad weather, so the students were treated to an impromptu entertainment in the college gym. The Alpha quartet sang several songs and Al Soucie played solo organ and piano selections. A volley ball game and an exhibition ping pong match were also held for the benefit of the visiting students. A stag dance was scheduled for the evening. Examination results were announced at the gym following the afternoon program.

The mutual exchange of compliments is the hallmark of the near great.

BETTY ZANE WATSON

Johnny Davis saves his grandmother, Jennifer Martin, from a holocaust at her home, but since she is unconscious when he reaches her, his cousin, Basil Martin, takes credit for the rescue. Thomas, the butler, is the only one who knows that Johnny was the real hero but he is afraid to speak, even though his doing so might cause Mrs. Martin to acknowledge the grandson she would never have into her home before. Johnny is in love with Kit Willett who is engaged to Basil. When Basil asks Kit to persuade Mrs. Martin to change her will, cutting out Johnny, she indignantly refuses but he then threatens to transfer her old uncle to a job as laborer. Johnny tells her he loves her.

CHAPTER XIII

Kit's aunt was able to find out the price that the widow Johnson was asking, and while it was more than they had counted on, J. D. said he thought he could persuade the council to buy it. They figured the remaining part of the afternoon and on into the evening until time for the council meeting.

Johnny and Kit, both anxious to know the outcome of the meeting, decided to wait at the Clarion office until J. D. returned. While he was gone they speculated on his progress every few minutes.

"Johnny, do you really think he will put it through?" she asked.

"I don't know, but if anybody can, Dad will," he answered very positively.

"If we get it started once, why there would be lots of things we could add," she suggested.

"Did you say 'we,' Kit? Do you think Basil will allow you to take part in it after—" Johnny did not finish his sentence.

"I keep forgetting. When I say we, I mean you. For, of course, Basil would object, and even if I defied them all, it would just cause a scene. But I'll always be thinking that maybe I helped just a little, Johnny, and I'll always be thinking of you and wondering how things are for you—about the park, of course," she hastened to add.

"Yes of course," Johnny answered slowly.

About ten, J. D. came up the steps of the building. They knew by the look on his face that something was wrong. He was not smiling, and his expression told clearly of disappointment.

"Well, kiddies, they opened their hearts to us, all right." He threw down the papers they had so carefully set up for the case. "We'll have exactly two hundred and fifty dollars to build the park with after we buy the Johnson place at our figure. Eight hundred dollars less than she's asking for. There it is—take it or leave it." He stood looking out the window at the black night, his hands stuck in his pockets.

"You mean that's the story, J. D.?" Kit asked, coming around the desk to stand in front of him.

"They'll only pay her fifty-two hundred for the place!" Johnny asked incredulously.

"Yep. That's the whole thing. Oh, yes," he remembered. "They'll appropriate the amount for the swimming pool." He saw Johnny and Kit's faces light up. "But—they expect to be paid back in two summers, from the fee we're supposed to charge the kids." He looked at them out of the corner of his eye to see how they would take this.

"Charge them to go in swimming?" Johnny and Kit asked almost in unison.

"That was their idea."

"But—what good would that do the kids at the Settlement? The kids we're building it for? They never have a nickel! They can spend, you know that." Johnny shook his head and gritted his teeth.

"I said it was their idea, son."

"Why, they're as bad as—Mrs. Martin. Don't they want a park, J. D. or what?" Kit asked.

"Oh, I think they don't care much one way or another. But the point is they have their budget all balanced nicely and with November's election near they just don't want to erase those pretty figures of what they've saved all the taxpayers. That's the real reason, Kit."

Kit and Johnny were both leaning up against the desk looking as discouraged as they possibly could. J. D. walked over to them and smiled at them, laying a hand on each of their shoulders.

The Council Buys The Johnson Place

"Wait a minute, kids, don't jump yet. You're forgetting that old J. D. can still pull a few tricks from the bag." He laughed as they looked at him eagerly.

"It so happens that I've got a little bit salted away. It's not much, but it's something. I've been saving it for a new press, but—well, the old one's been with me so long that I'd sort of feel like I was junking an old friend, anyway, so maybe with that money and a few more shekels we could swing the deal yet."

They both looked at him and neither said a word, but the admiration they both felt was written plainly on their faces. It was Kit who spoke first.

"J. D., you're a darling, but we're not going to let you lose your new press. It's just not right—and the old one's worn out—you know that."

"No, Dad, we can't do that. You keep your money till you can get the new press. There will be some other way." He put his hand up to his chin and frowned. "There's got to be some other way."

"Listen, since when do I take orders from two young squirts like you? It's my money and I intend to do with it what I think should be done with it. Those kids need a playground a lot worse than the Clarion needs a new press."

They argued for a while, but finally gave up. J. D. had made up his mind and it was final. He had enough to pay the Johnson widow the six thousand she was asking and that would leave ten hundred and fifty dollars to invest in material for the playground, since the labor, or most of it, was to be free. The swimming pool would have to wait for a few years, or until they could show the town council what an interest the park would create in the town.

"Well, then, it's decided and we can't talk you out of it, J. D.?" She looked at him and saw him shake his head defiantly. "We might as well celebrate, then—and anyway—this is Johnny's birthday!" She smiled at Johnny.

"Yeah—let's get out of here," Johnny quickly changed the subject.

"Johnny's birthday—it is, isn't it, son? How many years, boy? Twenty-four, isn't it?" He shook his head. "It seems like yesterday." He looked at the calendar and slowly tore off the page of November, crumpled it and threw it in the waste basket.

The next few days were ones of activity for Johnny, J. D. and Kit. Although she had quit her job at the Clarion the Saturday before, she was down at the office Monday morning early. They were to see Mrs. Johnson that day and Kit had offered to go with them, and would have been quite disappointed if they had acted as though they did not need her help.

The deal for the house went through at fifty-seven hundred, and J. D. could have gotten it at even a lower price if he had not felt that the widow needed the money. They were all three elated over the formal signing up and reminded one another of the advantages that the property had for the park site. They tried not to compare it to Martindale Park for several reasons. Martindale was definitely unobtainable; secondly, the deal had gone through now and there was no backing down. The council had their money in it, as well as J. D.

Kit was still at the office when Jackie came in.

They were all surprised to see him. The child was pale and still weak-looking, but he showed a good deal of improvement. The day was bitterly cold and his ragged little jacket did not keep him warm, Kit noticed immediately.

They got almost as much kick out of it as the boy did.

He climbed up on J. D.'s lap and the four of them talked and laughed together. They ordered hot chocolate and sandwiches brought in from the confectionery next door and had a regular celebration in his honor, which made him very proud.

He had said he had to be home by four, when his father got home, and Johnny promised to get him there in time. Before he left, the child turned to Kit and very seriously asked: "When are you going to get married, Kit?"

Kit, thinking he still thought she was Johnny's girl, as he had originally believed, answered, "Well, honey, we haven't decided yet. But we'll let you know, won't we, Johnny?" She winked at Johnny.

"No," Jackie shook his head and looked down at his feet. "I mean the real one you're going to get married to."

Kit was embarrassed. She wondered how he had found out about Basil. "In a few days, Jackie," she answered slowly.

Jackie Poses A Question

"Kit, what are you going to marry him for? He's bad!" The child looked directly into her eyes and demanded the truth.

She found it would be hard to tell him the truth; his child-like faith might not accept her standards. "Why, because I—because we love each other, Jackie . . . and he's really not bad, honey. What makes you think that?"

He disregarded her last question. "How can you love him and Johnny, too, Kit?"

She was stumped. There was no answer to that but one. She could say bluntly that she didn't love Johnny—in fact, that was the only thing she could say.

"But I don't love—Johnny." She breathed a sigh of relief. That much was settled.

Jackie's eyes grew large and he looked up at her earnestly. "Oh, but you do Kit, you do!"

"What do you say we take a look at that sheepskin jacket down at Disher's for you, Jack?" Johnny had seen the jackets in the window before and had decided the boy should have one.

But Jackie was not to be sidetracked. "But, Johnny, won't you tell her she does?" he pleaded anxiously.

Johnny looked at Kit helplessly. He was as embarrassed as she was. "Well, Jack, I'll do my best." He half-dragged the boy out to the street.

Johnny was outfitted from head to toe when the three of them finished with him at Disher's. They got almost as much kick out of it as the boy did. They looked like Christmas shoppers when they finally brought the child home. Mrs. Murphy greeted them at the door, her gratitude making her plain little face almost beautiful.

As they drove away, Kit confessed to the two men, "You know, I don't ever think I've had so much fun. Isn't he a darling?"

"Yeah," Johnny's face lit up. "He's just the kind of a boy I'd like to have."

Kit remembered Johnny's statement that evening when she was with Basil.

"I had a lot of fun today, Baz. We—ah, some friends and I bought some clothes for—a little kid." After she mentioned it she wished she had not brought it up; there was too much about it that she did not want Basil to know. He would not like her being at the Clarion, especially after she no longer worked there. And he certainly would not appreciate her buying clothes for Jerry Murphy's child. Murphy had caused enough trouble, going to Martindale every other day threatening to sue the Martins for the child's accident. Basil had been cleared and did not intend to pay them a cent, he told Kit quite definitely.

She went on describing the event with as much clarity as she could, remembering not to mention the child's name or who her friends had been. "Which will we have first, Baz, a boy or a girl?" she asked, smiling at him. "Neither! That's final. The old lady is just looking for an excuse to get out of leaving me her dough—and that sure would clinch it! Don't talk kids to me, baby!" He drew a long drag on his cigarette. "Basil, what are you talking about?" Kit asked. "Just what I said. Why, she'd love to leave everything in a trust fund for a great-grandchild or anybody else she could dig up. And don't think I don't know it!" He nodded his head. "And you mean we won't have any children because—" Kit was sitting on the sofa beside him and she stood suddenly—"because you are so selfish you want all of Mrs. Martin's money for yourself! Because—"

He took her by the wrist and pulled her down beside him, leaning over her, his face close to hers. "Wait a minute, beautiful, you got me wrong." He looked deep in her eyes and touched her cheek with his lips. "I was only kidding. . . . Why, can't you tell, baby? Why, the only reason I don't want to have any kids is—" He nodded his head in the direction of Linda Martin's portrait. "What would I do if any, thing happened to you—like it did to her, Kit?" He smoothed her hair back from her forehead. "You know I couldn't live without you, don't you?"

"Couldn't you, Basil?" she asked, not looking at him. Her voice was expressionless.

Johnny and J. D. were in the office of the Clarion when Pat Nickols came in Tuesday after the Johnson property was officially theirs.

Bad News for The Davises

He was a big, burly fellow and Johnny had not seen him since he had been one of the party that had started to work on the Martindale park some months back. His usual smiling face was clouded as he burst into the office where the two men were busy with the copy for the evening edition.

J. D. looked up. "Well, Pat, what is on your mind?"

"Plenty, J. D.," was his reply and the expression on his face matched the seriousness of his answer. "You fellows buy the Johnson place?"

"That's right, Pat. We're going to put the park on the lot," Johnny spoke up.

"I don't think you'll be putting any park on that ground." He shook his head. "My grandpa built that place back in '86 and they had a devil of a time. There's a rock bed under that house no more'n five feet down below ground, and you know the kind of rock we got around here, so darned hard you can't even touch it!"

J. D. had prepared himself for bad news from the look on Pat's face, but this was a little worse than he had counted on. He said nothing for a few minutes—he didn't have the courage to look at Johnny.

After studying a moment, Johnny asked quickly, "Well, that was under the house—could be the rest of the lot is all right, couldn't it?"

"That I couldn't say, Davis. Maybe . . . but it ain't likely." He saw the look of disappointment on Johnny's face and added quickly, "But we'll see. I'll round up some of the men this afternoon and we'll give it a try. You be over there?" he asked both the men.

"You couldn't keep us away, Pat." J. D. answered for both of them.

Bridegroom—Certainly, darling. For example, I've spent all day wondering what you put in those biscuits we had for breakfast.

USELESS GAME

The manager of a movie theater was standing in the lobby. He noticed a patron, obviously from out of town, buy a ticket, then a few minutes later go back and buy another one. This happened several times, until the manager finally went over to the man. "My dear sir," he said, "why do you waste your money like that? All you need is one ticket."

"I know," the man wailed, "but that doorman keeps tearing them up!"

Smart Girl

Elizabeth Joy, who had more brains than good looks, attended a party, where someone used the quotation: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

"Oh, I'm glad that I'm not a beauty," chimed in Elizabeth, "for I certainly don't want to be a Joy forever!"

So Helpful!

She came into the railway express office with a very heavy parcel and said to the manager:

"They tell me you wrap packages for shipment here."

All the employees were busy. It was the rush hour. So the manager graciously wrapped the package himself and tied it carefully. As he finished, he asked:

"Do you want it sent prepaid or collect?"

"Oh, I'm not sending it express," she exclaimed. "I'm going to mail it!"

Total Flop

A very small boy came home dejectedly from his first day at school. "Ain't goin' tomorra," he muttered. "And why not?" his mother asked. "Well, I can't read and I can't write and they won't let me talk, so what's the use."

Pretty Thin Joke

"By Jove, old man, your walls are thin! You can hear the next door radio just as though it were in this room."

"I'll say the walls are thin! Why, when I get a headache the fellow next door takes two aspirins!"

Boston Dealer—Did I understand you to say that the parrot I sold you uses improper language?

Boston Customer—Perfectly awful. Why yesterday I heard him spit an infinitive.

EASY TO SPOT

A flustered woman, her arms full of packages, approached the department store floorwalker.

"Oh, dear," she said in an anguished tone, "I'm looking for my husband. I was to have met him here two hours ago. I wonder if you have seen him?"

"Possibly I have, madam," he replied. "Is there any distinguishing characteristic about him by which I could identify him?"

A frightened expression came over the woman's face.

"He's," she replied hesitantly, "I imagine he's purple by now."

Self Defense

Johnnie—Please, teacher, what did I learn today?

Teacher—Why, Johnnie, what a peculiar question.

Johnnie—Well, that's what they'll ask me when I get home.

Not His Fault

At the public library, a small boy presented a well-worn, dirty volume at the return desk. The librarian glanced at the book, leaned forward to take in the size of the boy, and then remarked, "This is rather technical, isn't it?"

Planting his feet firmly on the floor, the boy, half dejected, half apologetic, said, "It was that way when I got it."

SHORT AND SNAPPY

Sailor (getting in barber chair)—Cut all three short.

Barber—Which three?

Sailor—Whiskers, hair and chatter.

Or Unrefined

The travelogue of the Hawaiian Islands, resplendent in technicolor, was very beautiful, and the voice of the commentator soft and soothing. A scene showing a great sugar cane field flashed on the screen.

From the loudspeaker came the comment: "It takes 18 months for the sugar to grow to maturity." And as an afterthought came the added aside: "That's a long time to wait for your sugar."

"Yeah," rejoined a voice from the back row, "but who wants his sugar immature."

Rates Too High?

When the teacher inquired of her class the cause of the Revolutionary war, little Jimmie volunteered: "It had something to do with automobiles."

"Oh, no, Jimmie!" protested the astonished instructor. That was in the days long before the automobile."

"Well," rejoined Jimmie, they said it was on account of unjust taxis."

Forewarned is Forearmed

Clothing Salesman—What! You want four pairs of trousers with this suit?

The Wrong Book

"Tell me, Jones," asked a sympathetic friend, "how is it that your wife dresses so magnificently and you always appear out at the elbows?"

"Well, I'll tell you," was the patient, long-suffering reply: "Molly dresses according to latest showings in the Ladies Home Journal while I dress according to the figures in the Jones Manufacturing company ledgers."

High Stakes

A hillbilly G.I. got into a poker game with some British soldiers. "I'll bet one pound," said one of the Tommies.

The American studied his four aces.

"I don't know how yuh count yer money over here," he declared, "but I'll jest raise yuh to one ton."

Just A Mascot

A little runt of a man, with a height scarcely exceeding five feet, recently married a widow, over six feet tall and of extremely generous girth.

"How do you like married life?" a friend asked the diminutive groom, shortly after he returned from the honeymoon.

The little man sadly shook his head.

"It wouldn't be so bad," he replied, "if people wouldn't persist in calling me 'the widow's mite'."

In Hollywood

What Newmarket Was Doing

According to the Newmarket Advertiser

Twenty Years Ago

Parties from Somersworth are to open a clothing store in the former Olympia lunch room.

Mrs. Anthony Andrews was the guest at a luncheon given by the Landsdowne Company of New York, at the American House in Dover, Saturday.

A whist party and concert given by Les Dames de Charitie at Foresters Hall Tuesday night was a great success. Prize winners at whist included Mrs. Joseph Malo, Mrs. A. Priest, Miss Lida Marriotti, George Labranche, Joseph Rousseau, Wilfred Rondeau.

A musical program was presented by Miss Clara St. Hilaire, Miss Marie Hamel, Mrs. Wilfred Laporte and Mrs. Marie Naud.

The Newmarket Speedway announces a new record was made on the track Fast Day, when Henry Ryan riding a Harley-Davidson single cylinder motor cycle, lowered the official track record for a half mile in 34 4/5 seconds.

A wonderful night, a fine banquet, good music, meeting with friends old and new, all combined to make the twenty-third annual meeting of The Newmarket Club on April 30, a great success. The meeting was held in Somerville, Mass.

Forty Years Ago

The public schools held their sessions as usual on Jamestown Day.

Frank Kidder has taken the position of baggage master at the local B & M station.

Frank Brackett is erecting a stable in the rear of his home on the North side.

Edwin Atherton had a finger badly cut by a circular saw recently.

G. P. Joy is advertising fine pasturage for horses and cattle at his farm at Rockingham.

Arthur and Frank Willey have moved to the house owned by the Baptist society and formerly occupied by Rev. J. A. Wiggin.

Newmarket High School baseball team defeated Exeter high 6 to 3 in a game played at Hall Driving Park last Monday afternoon.

Guy Brown, an operator at the local telephone exchange, has gone to Clinton, Mass., and is replaced by Thomas G. Bennett of this town.

Rev. George Demers of Somersworth is the new pastor at St. Mary's church here, taking charge of the parish last Saturday.

The new ball grounds being laid out by the Newmarket Manufacturing company baseball teams in the company's field near the grove, are being put in readiness for this year's games. The grounds have been named "Pine Grove".

"The way the dust has blown about on Main street the past week is a disgrace to a civilized community, and is hurting business, as people do not care to come to a town to trade and have to eat their peek of dirt in one day. Through negligence on the part of those interested, it was voted at the annual town meeting not to appropriate money for this purpose . . . "As the town owns the water works the vote was merely a matter of form, as the money received by the waterworks would have been turned back to the town, and all the water would cost would be what little extra pumping might have to be done. . . . The merchants have always paid for sprinkling the streets, and are willing to do it now, but Mr. Kent states that he cannot afford to pay for the water, as there is hardly enough money in the transaction to pay the expenses of a man and pair of horses."

Sixty Years Ago

B. F. Haley & Co. is making new uniforms for the Col. Sise engine company in Portsmouth.

Workmen are straightening the B & M tracks at Rockingham junction, preparatory to laying the double track between here and Exeter.

Work has begun on the foundations of the new brick fireproof building which B. F. Haley & Co. will erect in the rear of their clothing shop. Bradford & Bunker will do the mason work.

The cylinder head on one of the engines in No. 4 mill blew off Monday forenoon, damaging the engine and putting it out of service for several days. The machinery is being run by the other two engines.

The Newmarket school nine went to South Newmarket last Saturday afternoon and played a game with the school nine of that place, defeating them by a score of 22 to 6.

The Canadian Dramatic Club of Salmon Falls played here last Saturday evening for the benefit of the St. John's Society.

DEATH

Mrs. Marie LaBranche

Newmarket—Funeral services for Mrs. Marie M. LaBranche, 68, wife of William LaBranche of 6 Creighton street who died at her home last Friday following a long illness, were held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from Brown and Trotter Funeral home.

The requiem solemn high mass was sung by Rev. Hector A. Benoit, D.D. with Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor serving as deacon and Rev. Arthur Massicotte of Dover, as subdeacon at St. Mary's church.

A delegation from the Ladies of Ste. Anne attended. The official delegates were Mrs. Alphonse Mailhot, Mrs. Gerard Boisvert, Mrs. Alphonse Burebee, Mrs. Wilfred Fontaine and the ribbon bearers were Mrs. Joseph Moreau, Mrs. Adelard Rousseau, Mrs. George Morin and Mrs. Sara Demers.

Bearers were six sons. Committal services were held at Calvary cemetery with Rev. Fr. Benoit officiating.

Mrs. LaBranche was born in St. Michel, Que., daughter of Etienne and Flora (Fournier) Labonte. She was a member of the Ladies of Ste. Anne.

Survivors include the husband; seven sons, Emile LaBranche of Pawtucket, R. I., Edward, Ladger, Rudolph, Terry, Archie LaBranche all of Newmarket; Antonio LaBranche of South Berwick, Me.; three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Coauette of Lowell, Mass., Mrs. Aurora Laplante of Newmarket and Mrs. Albert Desjardins of Newmarket; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Goulet of Danielson, Conn., Miss Josephine Labonte of Cap St. Ignace, Que., Mrs. Marie Guilmette of Newmarket; a brother, Joseph A. Labonte of Taunton, Mass.; 23 grandchildren; two great grandchildren.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been cleaning new kidneys for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your druggist!

SMILING ANNIE

By SUE RECKEFUS

WNU Feature.

THE GIRL behind the counter wasn't pretty. She knew it and she didn't mind. It was easier to talk to the soldiers who came in for a sandwich and coke between trains. Not being pretty, she could joke with them and listen to their stories without flirting with them. When you were pretty, you felt you had to flirt a little.

They called her Annie. Annie with the smile. She wasn't smiling now as she wiped the counter. The place was empty and she had a chance to think about this morning. Mr. Jacobs had been mad, and sorry he was mad, which made him sound even worse. He had worked hard for his tiny restaurant and he was proud he was finally making a profit. He often spoke of his son overseas and how much he wanted enough money saved to give his boy a start when he came back. Lately he had begun losing money and it was Annie's fault.

She had begun in a small way not charging a few boys for their food and putting the money in the cash register herself. She couldn't resist the look on a boy's face when he

"Hello," he said. "I know just what I want. I'll have two tall glasses of orange juice. Real orange juice not canned or anything else. I want to see you squeeze them and I want to smell the rind."

"Golly with the build-up, I hope we have some. I'll have to look."

She opened the refrigerator and peered into it. Way in the back were a dozen of the biggest oranges she had seen for a long time. Funny, she didn't know they were there. She must have missed them so far back.

WHEN THE first big glass was in front of him, he said, "Now I know I'm home. I wasn't too sure for a while." He slowly drained the glass and put it back on the counter.

He finished the second glass with a sigh of satisfaction and stood up to pay. Annie said recklessly, "It's on the house, soldier."

Turning toward the door, he said softly, "Yep, I'm really home."

Mr. Jacobs stopped by his restaurant to get some things he had left in the refrigerator and to see how Annie was making out. He gave her a cheerful greeting.

"Annie, did you see the oranges I asked you to save? I am sure I put them in here."

"I am sorry, Mr. Jacobs. I forgot. I gave them to a customer; a soldier. He was thirsty," she added helplessly, "I'm awfully sorry. I'll go get some more."

In a tired voice, Mr. Jacobs said, "I waited in line early this morning for these. They were the best in town. By the way, what did you charge for them?"

"Can't you please take it out of my next week's salary? I won't give for free any more. I couldn't help it this time. It was different somehow."

"It always is," he said flatly. "This was the last time, I'm sorry, too, but I'll have to let you go."

He walked out the door, not wanting to see her bleak eyes.

Halfway down the block, he started to run toward a tall figure in khaki. He hugged his son and they started laughing together and sat down talking.

"Say, Pop, I stopped by the place before I got home. I thought maybe you would be there. But I couldn't have had better service if you had. A really swell girl made me some orange juice, just like I used to dream about. I knew I was home then. Boy, it was something. And by the way, she didn't charge me. That made me feel even better. If that kind of thing is your contribution to service morale, you couldn't have picked one better."

"You don't know how many fellows get on the beam again, just from somebody being nice to them who doesn't have to."

The girl wasn't pretty. She didn't mind. When you were pretty, you felt you had to flirt a little.

realized a stranger was being kind. For the last few weeks, however, she didn't have enough to balance and Mr. Jacobs had found out. He had given her the last warning today. Once more and she would have to leave.

The door opened and a soldier walked in. He was tired, but he had a glow about him and his eyes were smiling.

Artificial Kidney Utilized To Treat Uremic Poisoning

Intended for the treatment of uremic poisoning, an "artificial kidney" was demonstrated by Dr. W. K. Kolff of Kampen, Holland, at Mt. Sinai hospital, New York.

Uremic poisoning follows damage to the kidney. Death need not ensue if, during the period required for repair, the kidney can be by-passed to a temporary substitute which will perform the function of excretion. With the artificial kidney as much as 260 grams of urea, which causes the uremic poisoning and death, has been successfully removed in one treatment of 14 hours' duration. With improved methods of technique the usual treatment now lasts about six hours.

Kolff's artificial kidney consists of a drum on which are wound 50 yards of cellophane tube. The whole is immersed in a salt solution. The radial artery in the forearm of the patient is connected with the tube and the blood flows through it and diffuses into the salt solution. After the poisonous substances from the kidney are removed the blood is returned from the cellophane tube into a vein in the patient's body.

Newmarket—Newmarket dropped the first baseball game of the season to Sanborn Seminary of Kingston, 4-2, April 29.

Norman St. Pierre, a Freshman, pitched a beautiful game, and although a bit nervous at first, of the four Sanborn runs only two were earned, erratic fielding brought in the others. From the looks of the first game it seems as though St. Pierre will be one of the best pitchers, ever to come out of Newmarket High.

Because of difficult weather conditions the Somersworth game originally scheduled for May 2 was postponed to May 12, and the Hampton game has been rescheduled to May 19. Both are home games.

Batteries: Newmarket, St. Pierre and Webb; Kingston, Hargis and Ryerson. Newmarket—2-3-2; Kingston—4-6-2.

ligious teachers, and a music teacher who is also church organist. Each year there are from 15 to 20 boys and girls completing eighth grade work in both French and English.

The Congregation of Holy Cross was founded by the Rev. Fr. Basil A. M. Moreau and Mother Mary of the Seven Dolors. Fathers, Brothers and four Sisters of Holy Cross left France in 1847, landing in Montreal in May. On May 27th, 1847 they took possession of their institutions in St. Laurent, a few miles from Montreal.

The Congregation consisted then of only four sisters. A few months later three young girls presented themselves as aspirants to the religious life. Two years later, there were 27 sisters governed by their Mother Foundress.

Now the Congregation numbers 2,021 living sisters, 503 deceased sisters, novices and postulants. They give education to 31,327 pupils in 112 institutions in Canada, the New England states and Bengal, India.

There was a special mass in honor of the local sisters at 8:30 this morning with the pupils of the local school attending.

Sew For Red Cross

Members of the Newmarket Women's Guild sewed on dresses for the Red Cross in the church vestry Tuesday afternoon. Plans were made for the annual outing to be held at the Hilton camp, Bow Lake, on June 17th. Turkey and ice cream will be served and each member will bring an additional contribution to the fund. Those planning to attend are Mrs. Mildred Rooney and Mrs. Eileen Parent.

Night of One-Act Plays is Pleasure

part of Miss Zelda Watkins the dignified appearing, fair acting school principal.

William Moreau played the popular Robert Sweeney who is accused of stealing his report card because it is missing, and he had been in the office previously, and had a good motive for picking up the card.

Joan St. Laurent played the part of Marcelle Denning, the typical girl student at the head of her class, and has two fall dance bids to choose between, which tie in to the motive for taking the report card.

"Red" Jablonski played the part of the debonair Humphrey Cass extremely well. Humphrey is the cause of the mix-up because he attempts to change Sweeney's report card so Marcelle will change her mind about going to the dance with Sweeney.

Ben Berman played "Hymie" Simpkins the friend and unwilling accomplice of Humphrey Cass.

Prompters: Trudy Gillis and Madeline Blanchette.

"Pierrot's Fantasy"

"Pierrot's Fantasy" was produced by the tenth grade under the direction of Andrew Crooker Jr. Bill Bouse as Pierrot and Marilyn Abbott as his companion, Pierrette. Light hearted and gay they were inclined to take the attitude of never growing old.

bes, Miss Arlene Behan, Mrs. Sarah Carmichael, alternates.

The name of Louise Labranch was chosen for a special prize and since she was not present, Mary Louise Cote received an award. The final whist party will be held May 16th with Mrs. Houle and Mrs. Dalton in charge.

The June 3rd refreshment committee was named, Mrs. Genevieve Longa, Mrs. Diana Loughlin, Mrs. Caroline Malo, Mrs. Lea Marcotte, Miss Eleanor Marelli.

Refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. Rose Levesque and beano was enjoyed.

Seven Tables of Whist At Auxiliary Party

Newmarket—Seven tables of whist were in play at the auxiliary party last Friday night at Legion hall. High scorers were: Women, first, Rose Levesque; second, Ellen Beale; low, Fred Beale; men, first, Fred Beale; second, Samuel Allen; low, Harry Silver.

The door prize was awarded Leda Brisson and the floating prize to Rose Levesque. Mrs. Alice Gillis was chairman assisted by Miss Marilyn Crouch.

While Pat Shelton as Harlequin and Deborah Waugh as Columbine were of the opposite philosophy and were content to grow old together in the fireside and worn slipper theme.

The plot of the two couples was tied in by Richard Philbrick and Richard Cilley as the courtiers who kill Pierrot in their attempt to cut off the beautiful golden curls of Harlequin. Thus Pierrot never grows old and Harlequin and Columbine are free to carry on their life together as they planned.

General business manager: Lucille Hamel; Scenery for the park motif was painted by Primo Pogni.

A varied program of musical entertainment was provided between each play by Terry Hamel who sang several solos accompanied on the piano by her sister Lucille. Carolyn Charest, Shirley Walker and Elaine Labranch, a popular school trio also sang several selections. Caroline Wawrakiewicz played accordion selections and Lily Stackpole sang and played her guitar.

Representatives of each class presented their teachers with gifts in appreciation of the work and help they had received.

Usherettes were Carolyn Charest, Doris Bennett, Eileen Ryan, Leona Morin and Madeline Blanchette.
